Is Virus-Fighter New 'Miracle' Drug?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Development of the first drug capable of treating virus-caused diseases is a "major advance," comparable to the discovery of penicillin nearly 50 years ago, health officials say. Scientists with the National Institutes of Health announced Wednesday a new experimental drug, adenine arabinoside, has been used successfully to treat a rare virus-caused brain disease.

Manufactured by the Parke-Davis pharmaceutical company of Detroit, the unpatented drug, also known as ara-A, was administered to 28 hospital patients suffering from herpes encephalitis, a disease that destroys brain cells. Dr. Charles A. Alfred Jr. of the University of Alabama, who coordinated the NIH-sponsored tests at 15 medical centers, said they showed that ara-A reduced herpes encephalitis mortality from 70 per cent to 28 per cent. The virus that causes the disease is a member of the same herpes family that causes chickenpox, shingles, fever blisters and the venereal disease, genital herpes.

The many infectious diseases that attack humans are caused mainly by two kinds of germs: bacteria and viruses. The discovery of penicillin in 1928 led to the development of antibiotics that have been used successfully to treat most bacteria-related diseases. But viruses have remained resistant to these and other drugs. Until the development of ara-A doctors have been able to treat only the symptoms of viral diseases, not the diseases themselves, and had to hope the body would successfully resist the virus on its own.

If ara-A can be used successfully in the treatment of herpes encephalitis, there is reason to believe it can fight off numerous other virus-caused diseases, such as the common cold and influenza, scientists said. Herpes encephalitis, which is difficult to diagnose, is believed to strike thousands of Americans each year, with only one in 10 victims making a full recovery. Most survivors suffer serious brain damage, and many remain incapacitated for life.

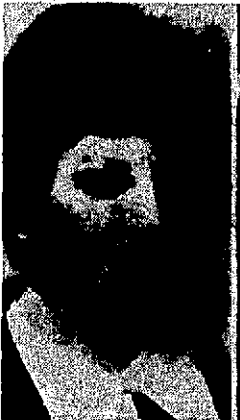

"This is exciting news," said Dr. Richard Krause of the NIH's National Institute of Allergy and Infectious Diseases of the new test results. "It is the first successful treatment of a serious and life-threatening virus disease. It opens up an avenue to a new form of therapy for this class of infections."

Alfred said the drug also has been used successfully in controlled tests to fight chickenpox and shingles in cancer patients and is being used by physicians in treating runaway herpes infections in cancer and transplant patients whose normal resistance to disease has been weakened by drug therapy. But he cautioned that it is too early to predict successful use of ara-A against herpes diseases or other viral infections on which it has not yet been tested.

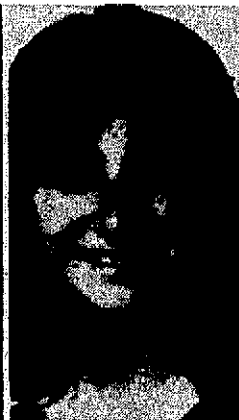

At present, ara-A is effective against serious diseases only when administered intravenously and must be given in a hospital. As a result, the drug is not likely to be used for some time to treat non-life threatening infections such as genital herpes and fever blisters in otherwise normal patients, officials say.

Horse Show Riders Vying For $9,000

More than 1,000 horses and their riders from across the Midwest are expected to compete tomorrow through Sunday at the annual Berrien County Youth Fair horse show at the fairgrounds in Berrien Springs. It is among the two or three biggest horse shows in Michigan. Over $9,000 in awards and ribbons will be distributed at the three-day event, sponsored by the Youth Fair association. Barbara Kolm, association secretary, said that horses will compete in a total of 271 classes over the three days of the show. The show is now in its 31st year and is a traditional kick-off event for the Berrien county Youth Fair. It originally was held during the fair, but in recent years was moved to the weekend just ahead of the fair dates.

Shows will be held in three rings at the fairgrounds beginning at 8 a.m., 1 and 7 p.m. Friday and Saturday, and 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. on Sunday. Admission for the show will be $1.50 at the grandstand and $2 for box seats. Children under 10 are admitted free. The fairgrounds are located approximately 3 1/2 miles north of Berrien Springs on US-31.

Car Ticket Leads To 'Son Of Sam'

By JACKIE STONE
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — A $35 ticket for parking too near a fire hydrant led police to a reclusive postal worker they said was "Son of Sam," the night stalker who killed six young persons and wounded seven with his .44-caliber revolver.

The arrest came as David Berkowitz, 24, left his apartment house Wednesday night in suburban Yonkers and encountered police, who had staked out the building.

Police said that as Berkowitz stepped into his car, they asked him who he was, and Berkowitz replied: "I'm Son of Sam. Okay, you've got me." He offered no resistance, police said.

"We have him," a police spokesman for 1st Deputy Police Commissioner James Taylor told reporters later.

Berkowitz was formally booked today at the 84th Precinct in Brooklyn on charges of second-degree murder, attempted murder, assault and possession of a deadly weapon in the murder of Stacy Moskowitz, 20, the killer's latest victim. Her date, Robert Violante, 20, was wounded and may never see again.

Wearing wornout blue jeans, a light blue and white striped shirt and light brown suede shoes, Berkowitz smiled at reporters as a cordon of police moved him out of the precinct house and took him to a nearby criminal court for arraignment later in the day.

Police said the most serious charge was second-degree murder because New York State law permits first-degree murder charges only in cases where the death penalty is allowed, as in the slaying of a police officer.

Neighbors in Yonkers, a city of 150,000 on the northern border of New York City, described Berkowitz as "a nice guy" who kept to himself.

Police said they seized two shotguns in his seventh-floor apartment and a .44-caliber Charter Arms Bulldog revolver Berkowitz carried with him as he entered his cream-colored Ford Galaxie sedan outside his apartment house. They said he also carried a brown bag with two dozen bullets and a poem.

Ballistics tests early today confirmed the revolver was the same one which was used in the killing of Miss Moskowitz, police said.

The poem described the death of a young woman — "... And huge drops of lead poured down upon her head until she was dead ..."

Police said they found a sub-machine gun in a gunny sack in Berkowitz' car and also found several notes in his car and apartment, one of which warned that Son of Sam would kill again.

"I want to see the animal's face that took my baby's life," Miss Moskowitz' mother, Neysa, said today. "And I want him to see me."

A newspaper, a television station and columnist Jimmy Breslin said today that police had told them that Berkowitz, a night superintendent at a post office in the Bronx, said he planned to strike next in Suffolk County, on the far end of Long Island. They said he allegedly planned to use the submachine gun in a discotheque or night club.

Police said previously that the same .44-caliber gun had been used in all eight attacks by the Son of Sam. Five women and one man died, three men and four women were wounded.

By Wednesday afternoon, police in plain-clothes had blanketed the street in Yonkers where Berkowitz lives. At least 15 city police officers made the trip, headed by John Keenan, the chief of detectives. They fanned out on the street, into a rear yard and onto apartment roofs.

"I was wondering what was up," said Jacqueline Wallace, a neighbor. "They had cars parked at both ends of the street. All of a sudden they were running toward him with their guns drawn. He (Berkowitz) just stood there."

Police said that inside the apartment they found news clippings about the .44-caliber killer and many confusing writings. Much of the material was hung on the wall, including a copy of Tuesday's New York Post, which had the latest police sketch of Sam.

The latest shooting was the only one in Brooklyn. The seven previous shootings were in Queens and the Bronx. Any charges related to those crimes would have to come from authorities in those two New York boroughs.

One of the detectives who arrested Berkowitz, John Longo, said, "We were just lucky we were there. We got the right assignment."

Police were led to Berkowitz by a ticket written for parking too near a fire hydrant. The ticket was issued the night Miss Moskowitz and Violante were shot, in the neighborhood of the shooting.

Police said they found a note addressed to them in Berkowitz' car. The contents of the note, printed in the same style used in earlier notes to the police and newspaper columnist Jimmy

Koreagate's Rusty Hinges Annoy Her

A few weeks ago this column said that while a thorough probe into influence buying of Congressmen, past and present, by a South Korean agent is in order, it is not necessary to make the television stage show that characterized the Watergate hearings. This view still holds, but we are struck by how the Washington power structure is making haste slowly into the investigation.

Last week Rep. Elizabeth Holtzman, a New York City Democrat, injected a more caustic note into the proceedings.

Miss Holtzman is a lawyer, a good looking gal in her 30s, and quite a spitfire once she works up a head of steam.

Five years ago she knocked off Emmanuel Celler in the Democratic primary simply by pointing out to the constituency that the old boy had been around Washington for more terms than was good for the home folks.

Emmanuel specialized in anti-trust legislation and busied himself so much on that subject through the years that he began to neglect the political fences back home.

Miss Holtzman quickly got herself put on the House Judiciary Committee.

Samuel Gompers' Profit Message Holds True Today

More than 50 years ago Samuel Gompers, then president of the American Federation of Labor, said, "the worst crime against working people is a company which fails to operate at a profit." Those words are equally applicable in 1977.

There is no substitute for profits in the American economy. They fuel the productive machinery. Without them faster growth is impossible because expansions and modernizations cannot be financed. If growth is subsidized by government action, the American economic system will be diluted with an increasing amount of state socialism.

New industrial developments are imminent. If they are financed by a vigorous private enterprise system, America will continue to forge ahead and remain competitive. If government action becomes the mainspring, the American economy will lose much of its traditional vigor.

Polls have shown the average American to be ill informed about both the profit role in a growing economy and the average profit earned by industry. In 1975, the 500 largest corporations earned a profit of 3.9 cents on each sales dollar.

To create one new job, an average investment of $41.00 is made by the private sector. Publicizing the important role of profit and how difficult it is to attain produces a better informed citizenry.

Benton Township's Electors Urged To Vote

Editor,

Early last spring a larger number of Benton Township residents attended the Annual Budget Meeting. One of the reasons for the meeting was to set elected officials salary for the coming year. Several people who took new jobs were already asking for raises of up to 40%. The request was voted down, but our township supervisor went ahead, after the vote of no raise, and selected a five-man committee to set salaries. This would go into effect unless the people vote against it. The committee would set the salaries from then on and the taxpayers would no longer have any voice in the decision.

A group of concerned citizens drew up a petition and obtained over 1300 signatures (537 were needed). The signatures showed the people wanted to voice their opinion on the ballot. These citizens resent this violation of trust and demand the right to decide the raises by themselves!

Benton Township voters —

Let's get out and vote next Tuesday, Aug. 16. We the taxpayers would like to have a say in how our tax money is spent. Beside salary — several of these people are paid mileage, pension, insurance and miscellaneous expenses.

Remember: To stop the compensation commission from setting salaries of our township officials vote Yes on the special ballot next Tuesday.

Teachers Tell Their View Of Educational Job

Editor,

As parents, educators and taxpayers, we would like to join the group sharing their views on education.

We would like to thank the school board who spend many hours on a volunteer basis running our schools in a financially sound manner. We would also like to thank all of the parents and interested taxpayers who come to school board, P.T.A., P.T.O. and other meetings to make themselves aware of the many problems our schools face.

This letter is aimed at those people who, for whatever the reason, are not aware of the difficult task educators face in teaching children today.

We are taught in school to educate the whole child. This means we are interested in your child's physical and emotional welfare as well as his academic welfare. They are inter-related and a weakness in any one area will affect his success in the others.

Our job is to educate all children who come to us. The state has made some changes over the years which makes this more difficult than before. We must now work in a regular classroom with children whose I.Q.'s are as low as 70. Only a

Editor's Mailbag

Again, not surprisingly, there has been a sudden flare-up of hard-ball Soviet espionage — precisely because Western technology is now crossing another and perhaps even more revolutionary threshold in weapons technology.

Thus, two men have recently been arrested in Florida for allegedly attempting to pass components of the cruise missile to Soviet agents in Cuba. Only what appears to be a chance mishap prevented Christopher John Boyce from turning over highly secret material from the TRW Systems Incorporated, which produces surveillance satellites for the U.S., to the Soviet Embassy in Mexico City. In Brooklyn, Sarkis O. Paskalian was sentenced to 22 years after pleading guilty to transmitting secret U.S. defense information to Soviet agents.

All this is undoubtedly merely the tip of the iceberg. The reason for the first time since the early atomic period, the U.S. is making a revolutionary quantum jump in weapons technology.

This quantum jump includes the cruise missile, the neutron bomb, and the MX mobile ballistic missile — all of them bad news for the Soviets — but these three developments, to repeat the expression, are only the tip of the iceberg.

'Citizens' Lobby'

Makes Its Mark

WASHINGTON — "We are going to build a true 'citizens' lobby" — concerned not with the advancement of special interests but with the well-being of the nation — prospective members of Common Cause were promised when that organization was founded seven years ago this month.

But that was easier said than done. Indeed, even as John W. Gardner, the founding chairman of Common Cause, was making that pledge he was seeking and receiving large donations from major institutions with vested interests.

The Arlen Realty and Development Corp., a large New York real estate firm, gave $25,000 to Common Cause and a member of its board of directors donated another $10,000. The Ford Motor Co. contributed $10,000 and Time, Inc. gave $5,000.

John D. Rockefeller III produced $25,000 for the new group. A senior partner in one New York investment house, Lazard Freres & Co., donated $10,000, while the partner in another, Goldman, Sachs & Co., contributed $5,000.

At the same time, Gardner and his advisors hand-picked a Common Cause "policy council," which included the senior partner in one major Washington law firm, the chief executives of two large companies and the ranking officers of three big labor unions.

It was hardly an auspicious beginning for an organization which Gardner promised would "Focus our anger... at institutions and individuals that have behaved irresponsibly."

But the early appeal for members struck a responsive chord, and in less than a year Common Cause had more than 100,000 members whose yearly dues produced $1.5 million in operating funds.

That quick success enabled Gardner to avoid having to return in search of additional large contributions to the wealthy individuals, corporations and unions which provided so much of the group's early "seed money."

At the same time, several businessmen on the "policy council," who joined with the apparent belief that they were lending their names to yet another well-intentioned but ineffectual organization, quietly resigned after realizing that Common Cause was quite serious about confronting Washington's power structure.

The "policy council" eventually disappeared, along with the famous names which Gardner initially recruited to provide an aura of respectability. Today, the Common Cause board is composed almost exclusively of the organization's "most active" members from throughout the country.

Similarly, the $15 annual dues paid by the group's approximately 250,000 members provide $3.75 million in yearly operating funds — about 75 per cent of all Common Cause revenues. (Only 5 per cent of its income comes from gifts of more than $100.)

Common Cause has led the fight to impose similar limitations on the size of individual contributions which can be given to politicians. Its most impressive single achievement has been the reform of the federal laws governing campaign finance to drastically reduce the influence of "fat cats" on the electoral process.

The organization also has been instrumental in the ongoing campaign to democratize the House and Senate, in bringing about passage of "sunshine" legislation to open the governmental process to public scrutiny and in pressing for disclosure of potential conflicts of interest on the part of federal, state and local officials.

What is especially striking is that Common Cause accomplished so much in the seven years since Gardner unveiled at an Aug. 18, 1970 press conference his new organization's seemingly naive plan "to revitalize politics and government."

Spies Help Reds

End Weapons Lag

The whole story includes space age advanced technology, and involves related breakthroughs in three important areas.

The three are: 1) in the accuracy of the advanced weapons; 2) in the explosive payload; and 3) in a variety of advanced sensors, linked to computer and cybernetic systems.

In this revolution, accuracy is no longer related to distance. The cruise missile is as accurate at 2,000 miles as the TOW anti-tank missile is at 4,000 yards. The guidance systems includes lasers, heat-seeking devices, acoustic instruments, artillery shells equipped with radar, devices that lock onto a hostile radar beam and ride it to its source.

In explosives, of course, the neutron bomb is probably the prime revolutionary development; but, though much less publicized, the so-called fuel-air explosive (FAE) may be just as significant. Unlike both nuclear and traditional explosives, the FAE operates on an entirely new principle. It first diffuses a high explosive vapor through the atmosphere, and then detonates it with tremendous concussive force. It takes 10 pounds per square inch of overpressure to kill. The FAE generates 300.

What this new weapons technology means is that massed armies and especially massed tank armies are fading into obsolescence. That is very bad news for the Soviets. Those 42,000 Soviet tanks, if launched across the German plain with all of their support equipment and masses of troops, would meet the approximate fate of Pharaoh's troops trying to cross the Red Sea.

Benton Votes Tuesday On Pay Ordinance

By JIM SHANAHAN
City Editor

Benton township voters in a special election next Tuesday will decide whether to retain or abolish a compensation commission ordinance that was adopted last March by the board of trustees. The ordinance provides for the establishment of a compensation commission that would set pay of township salaried officials.

The ballot reads: "Shall the Benton Township Compensation Commission Ordinance, heretofore adopted at the regular March 15, 1977 meeting of the Benton Township Board of Trustees, be repealed?"

A "Yes" vote is for repeal of the ordinance. A "No" vote is for retaining the ordinance. The election will be decided by a simple majority of votes cast.

A majority of "Yes" votes means that citizens will continue the traditional practice of approving or rejecting recommended salaries of township elected salaried officials at annual meetings. The salary recommendations are made by a committee consisting mostly of elected officials. A majority of "No" votes means that salaries of elected officials will be set in the future by a five-member compensation commission, appointed by the supervisor with the approval of the board of trustees.

Salary determinations of the compensation commission could only be overturned by a two-thirds vote of the board of trustees. The referendum Tuesday was scheduled after a group called Citizens and Taxpayers of Benton township collected petitions for an election on the compensation commission ordinance.

Mrs. Cecilia Burke and Frank Graziano are co-chairmen of the group. Graziano said when the petitions were filed May 23 they contained 1,307 signatures. Only 514 signatures of the township's some 10,000 registered voters were needed to put the issue on the ballot. A total of 819 signatures were validated, and the petition filers did not require a check of the remainder.

The township board has appointed the members of the compensation commission, but the commission would be powerless and abolished if the compensation commission ordinance is repealed. Township Atty. Thomas N. Robinson said the compensation commission would act on pay of only elected officials who receive regular salaries. These are supervisor, clerk and treasurer — not the four trustees who are paid on a per diem basis.

'JUSTIFIABLE HOMICIDE' RULING

Black Ministers Ask New Probe

A group of black ministers plans to ask Berrien Prosecutor John Smietanka to reopen the investigation of the July 28 killing of McEldon Tisdell by Berrien Springs-Oronoko police. Rev. Elbert Brown, president of the Southwestern Michigan Baptist Ministers Alliance, said yesterday the alliance has conducted its own investigation of the incident and found "several inconsistencies" in police reports of the slaying. Rev. Brown would not reveal the details of the "inconsistencies" but said members have interviewed witnesses of the slaying and plan to continue to the their investigation.

The Berrien county prosecutor's office ruled on Aug. 2 the killing was "justifiable homicide." The ruling was made after investigation by the Berrien sheriff's department. "We're not saying it (the justifiable homicide ruling) is wrong," Rev. Brown said. "We're just not satisfied with what we've heard."

Randy Arnt, chief investigator for the prosecutor's office, said yesterday Smietanka was out of town on vacation but planned to set up an appointment to meet the ministerial group when he returned.

The ministers alliance held a half-hour prayer vigil yesterday at the courthouse in St. Joseph "to let the community know we are concerned about what happens to human beings." Thirteen people attended the prayer vigil at the courthouse, and Rev. Michael Shane, the alliance corresponding secretary, said the attendance was purposely limited for control. "This is a hot issue in the community," he said. "And there's a lot of dissatisfied people. We didn't want any trouble."

Among those attending the vigil yesterday were Rev. Brown, pastor of St. Paul's Baptist church; Rev. Shune, associate minister at New Bethel Baptist;

Tisdell, 28, was fatally shot by Berrien Springs-Oronoko police at Rose Hill Manor, 511 Rose Hill, Berrien Springs, where police were called "on complaint of a disturbance. The prosecutor's ruling said investigation showed Tisdell was twice ordered to drop a shotgun which was lowered then pointed again at one of the officers who then fired in self-defense, according to the ruling. The officers were identified by Sheriff's Del. Fred Reeves as George John and Fred Foster. Reeve's initial investigation indicated there were three other adults in the apartment at the time of the shooting.

Lead Poisoning Tests Set For Benton Harbor

Indications that some Benton Harbor residents have lead poisoning prompted the Berrien county health department to ask the federal Center for Disease Control to conduct tests here Aug. 20 through 31.

The screening will be from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m. each day at the Benton Harbor recreation department, 808 Territorial road. It will involve children ages 1 to 3 who will be recruited from certain areas of Benton Harbor, according to John Eberly, director of nursing for the health department.

"We really don't know whether we have a lead poisoning problem or not," said Mrs. Eberly.

She said lead poisoning was detected in some children who were screened in Benton Harbor for various medical programs. While few of those children needed medical treatment for lead poisoning, the disease's presence was cause for further testing, Mrs. Eberly said.

Lead poisoning is usually caused when a child chews a lead pencil, cuts paint chips or pieces of plaster containing lead. The child may suffer from vomiting, a stomach ache or a cross or tired feeling. Lead accumulates in the blood, and if the disease is left untreated it can cause convulsions and brain damage, according to a health department news release.

Because the problem usually affects children living in homes built before 1960, the year while lead was removed from house paints, health department workers will go into older neighborhoods in the city looking for children between the ages of 1 and 3 to test. Children between those ages "are the ones who put anything and everything into their mouths," Mrs. Eberly said.

At least 200 children will be tested, she said. It is hoped children living in an area roughly bordered by Colfax, Britain, Fair and Waukena can be tested.

Tests consisting of a fingerprick blood test analyzed on the spot will be done by personnel from the Center for Disease Control, Atlanta, Ga.

Before the testing, health department workers will canvass neighborhoods contacting parents and making appointments for their children to be tested, Mrs. Eberly said. She is seeking the cooperation of all parents and children, she added.

THOMAS BYERS
Chief planner resigns

Head Planner For Area Quits; Takes New Post

Thomas Byers, executive director of the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning Commission (SMRPC) today announced he is resigning the post effective Sept. 12 to assume the same position with the Michigan Area Council of Governments (MACOG).

Byers, 31, started as director of SMRPC Aug. 11, 1976, and had worked for MACOG for four years before that. His present salary is $21,800, and he said he will start at $21,672 in his new post.

"I decided to go back to MACOG because I had worked there before and the job presents a challenge," Byers said. He noted MACOG has had "a number of problems recently."

Lad Stacey, a Berrien county commissioner and chairman of the SMRPC board, said advertisements for Byers' replacement will be published soon, and he will appoint a committee to review applications and conduct interviews "in hopes we can hire a new director as soon as possible."

Stacey added: "His return to MACOG should further enhance the working relationship between the respective planning agencies as Tom will be in a position to continue the efforts towards coordinated planning efforts in the two-state area."

Stacey said that under Byers' direction the SMRPC "has broadened its activities to include programs such as economic development and transportation while maintaining a high level of dedication to promoting strong local government in southwestern Michigan."

Byers had replaced Tom Sinn as executive director of SMRPC, a post Sinn held for two years.

JOHN C. STERLING
Awarded medal

Former BH Man Given Navy Honor

The Department of Defense has awarded the joint service commendation medal to Commander John C. Sterling, USN, a native of Benton Harbor, for his services as an adviser to the Tunisian navy from July, 1974, through May, 1976.

The presentation was recently made in Arlington, Va., at the headquarters of the Naval Sea Systems Command where Sterling is assigned as head of the fleet support branch.

The Navy said Sterling was largely responsible for providing the technical assistance needed to prepare the Tunisian destroyer "President Bourguiba" for operational readiness.

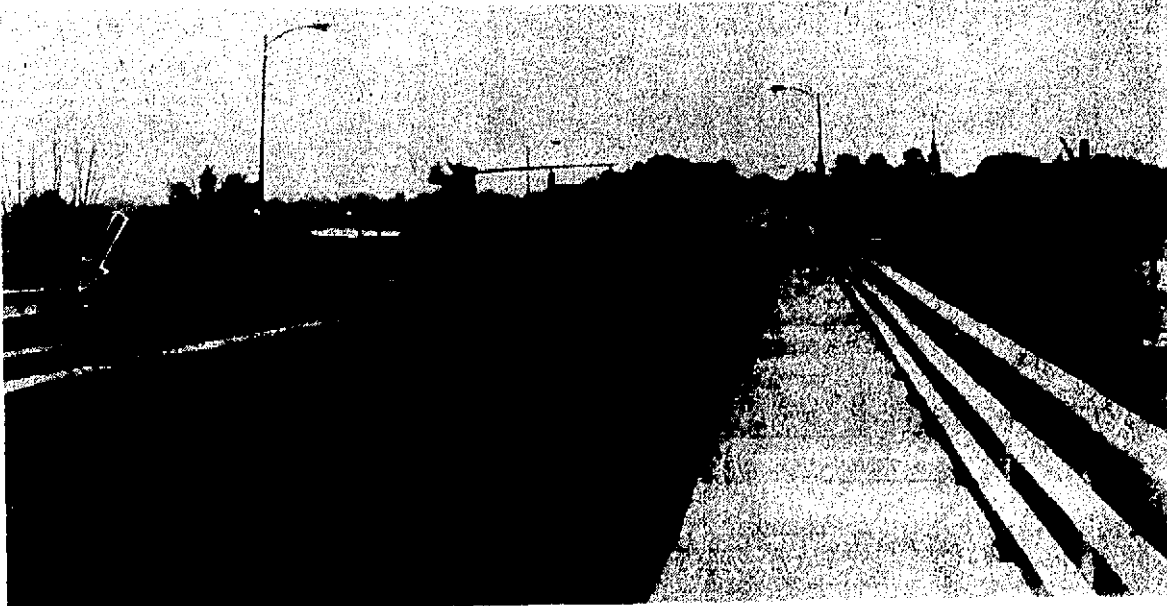

The Bourguiba — largest ship in the Tunisian navy — was purchased from the U.S. Navy in 1973.

Sterling established an English language training program to prepare officers and men of the Bourguiba for training at U.S. Navy schools.

He also used U.S. Navy training teams to provide the crew with training in critical operations and maintenance areas, the Navy said.

Sterling received the government of Tunisia's highest military decoration last year for his services.

Sterling is a graduate of Benton Harbor high school and a 1964 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy. He is the son of the late Judge Webster Sterling and Mrs. Jane Sterling Clay of Punta Gorda, Fla. He has two daughters and a son living at Seal Beach, Calif.

BRIDGE FAILURE STOPS TRAFFIC: Twin Cities Bicentennial bridge over St. Joseph river was closed to highway traffic for 32 minutes yesterday due to mechanical malfunction of locks as bascule leaves were closing. Bridgetender Ed Ward said malfunction occurred at 1:23 p.m., and police in Benton Harbor and St. Joseph diverted traffic to other routes. Slight hump in surface of eastbound lane (arrow) resulted from locking device failing to let bridge close completely, same malfunction that occurred July 24. Ward said bridge was working properly today and had opened last night to let boat through with no problems. Bridge cost $9 million to span river and Morrison channel, and was first opened to four-lane traffic in March. (Staff photo)

Wiretap Evidence Ruled Out

DETROIT (AP) — Tape recorded wiretaps used in a bribery case involving a Small Business Administration official and two other men have been declared inadmissible as evidence. U.S. District Court Judge Damon J. Keith said Wednesday the wiretaps cannot be used against Salvatore A. Lauricella, supervisor of the Small Business Administration's surety guarantee program, and Frank C. Iacocca and John P. Bobal, president and vice-president of B.I.M. Inc., a Cleveland construction company. Keith had permitted the tapes to be played to the jury but said they could not be the only evidence submitted in support of an alleged criminal conspiracy among the SBA official and Iacocca and Bobal. In ruling the jury could no longer consider the tapes as evidence, the judge indicated the additional evidence presented by the government had not been sufficient.

The school, which will begin its seventh year, is located in St. Luke's Lutheran church, 5029 Cleveland avenue, Stevensville. It is open to all children who will be three years old by Sept. 1.

The goal of preschool education, according to Mrs. W.C. (Nancy) Woolen, publicity chairman, is to provide the preschool child with opportunities for interaction with a peer group in a supportive environment which will enhance his self image and self concept.

The nursery offers enriching experience through exposure to various large and small muscle equipment, books, music, elementary science, nature concepts, and self expression through arts and crafts projects.

Parents of students attending a cooperative nursery are offered a guide in the better understanding of their children's growth and development and increased insight into their own roles as parents. Through observation and participation in the school, consulting with professional persons, participation in group meetings, parents are given the opportunity to see the significance of the school program for fostering the child's development and training.

The school is licensed by the Michigan Council of Co-operative Nurseries and owned, operated and administered by parents of enrolled preschool children.

Each session is taught by a licensed teacher with the assistance of three mothers. Mrs. Joan Weber will teach the three-day sessions and Mrs. Pam Griesse, the two-day sessions.

Mrs. Weber has been with the Lakeshore school for a year and a half and graduated from National Teacher's college, Evanston, Ill. She taught kindergarten in Michigan and Florida for five years, was a special education teacher with the St. Joseph school system and formerly taught at a Benton Harbor nursery school.

The services will be held at 7:30 p.m. each day and the public is invited.

In addition to Camp Soni Springs, the council also owns Camp Shawadasee, located near Lawton. The camp was purchased by the Girl Scouts in 1959, and was named as an abbreviation for Scouts of Northern Indiana, which became part of the Singing Sands council in 1972. # Looking Great, Feeling Cozy

WEATHERBEATERS: Scarves as weatherbeaters for fall '77 produce ways to beat the cold while looking great and feeling cozy. It's the year of scarf layering but not burdening — so the fabrics are lightweight. In group at left, are, top-left, a 28-inch twill herringbone pattern square at the neck with a 49-inch acrylic plaid shawl over the shoulders; top right, a sheer wool fair isle muffer is knotted and tucked into a shirt while an acrylic muffer is knotted under the collar, and bottom, a neck filler which when worn up, is a cozy hood, tied all together with a 32-inch sheer wool floral. In

Party Friday

Reading Club

Children who read five or more books during the summer reading program, "Haunted House Reading Club," at Benton Harbor public library, are invited to attend a party at the library, Friday, Aug. 12, from 3 to 5 p.m.

Bulletin boards in the children's room of the library displayed the names of participants as did a "bookie monster" book chain that was strung throughout the room which also displayed the names of books read by each child.

Volunteers who assisted with the program were Miss Valerie Wells, library aide; Miss Vanessa Brew and Miss Sheryl Finley, library pages, and Miss Keturah Baker, Miss Katherine Nelson, Miss Ethel Nelson, Miss Christine Anderson, Miss Sandra Anderson, all of Benton Harbor senior and junior high schools, and Miss Lori Sila, of Coloma.

Art work for the book chain was done by Benton Harbor public library artist Lucille Kneisley, and taken from the picture book by Maurice Sendak, "Where the Wild Things Are."

READERS: About 220 children participated in Benton Harbor public library's summer reading program, "Haunted House Reading Club." Among those who read the most books were from left Irene Bacolor, 10, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Rodolfo Bacolor, a fifth grade student at North Shore; Yasdi Baker, 10, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. Willis Baker, a sixth grader at Martin Luther King Jr. school, and Karla Kasischke, 7, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kasischke, a second grader at St. Matthews Lutheran school. ## Veal For The Gourmet Veal is the very young beef animal. Delicate flavor is one of its most outstanding characteristics.

Because of this, veal combines exceptionally well with sauces and seasonings which is a reason for it being chosen for numerous gourmet recipes.

A favorite way of cooking veal steaks is to bread them, that is to dip the pieces in beaten egg, then in fine bread crumbs, before they are browned in cooking fat.

Negotiators Complete New Canal Pact

By RICHARD E. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is getting a personal report from his negotiators on their historic agreement to relinquish control of the Panama Canal by the year 2000. The pact crowns efforts for a new treaty that began with bloodshed 13 years ago.

U.S. Ambassadors Sol Linowitz and Ellsworth Bunker said they were returning from Panama today to meet with Carter.

The President, at the White House for his first full day of work after a five-day vacation in his hometown of Plains, Ga., will receive a copy of the treaty once the principles of the agreement are drafted into final language.

"He wants the treaty in his hands," White House Press Secretary Judy Powell told reporters before leaving Georgia. "He wants to go over it word for word, line by line. And he wants the National Security Council and the Cabinet to go over it, too."

Carter had hoped to reach an agreement on principles by Wednesday, when Linowitz's term as special ambassador expired. Now the White House hopes to have the treaty drafted by the time Congress returns from its summer recess in September.

The agreement reached late Wednesday is known to call for turning the canal and adjacent Canal Zone over to Panama by the end of this century. It also makes a big increase in U.S. payments for use of the canal.

The pact provides Panama with hundreds of millions of dollars in aid for the life of the treaty and guarantees unrestricted transit through the canal.

"From the point of view of the United States, we are confident that this treaty will not only protect but strengthen our national security interests," said Linowitz and Bunker in a statement Wednesday night in Panama City.

"It will also be a strongly positive element in our overall relationship with our Latin American neighbors," they said.

U.S. officials in Panama City said, meanwhile, they expect Carter to make a public address soon to rally support for the terms of the treaty. They said he might go to Panama to sign it.

Panamanian officials said there were plans to invite Latin American chiefs of state to a treaty-signing celebration in Panama City.

To stem criticism in Congress, the President has sent every member a message urging all senators and representatives not to lock themselves into positions opposing the treaty at least until they see it and he talks to them about it.

"We are going to have a pretty decent treaty," Powell said.

The administration counts perhaps 50 senators as inclined to favor a new treaty, 22 as tending to oppose it and the rest undecided. Administration officials acknowledge it won't be easy to muster the 67 votes needed for ratification.

The House of Representatives must pass enabling legislation.

control of the 10-mile-wide Canal Zone across the Isthmus of Panama.

Efforts to reach a new treaty reach back to Jan. 9, 1964, when a group of Panamanian students defiantly entered the Canal Zone carrying a Panamanian flag.

What began as a peaceful protest against American jurisdiction in the zone soon turned into the worst incident of mob violence in canal history.

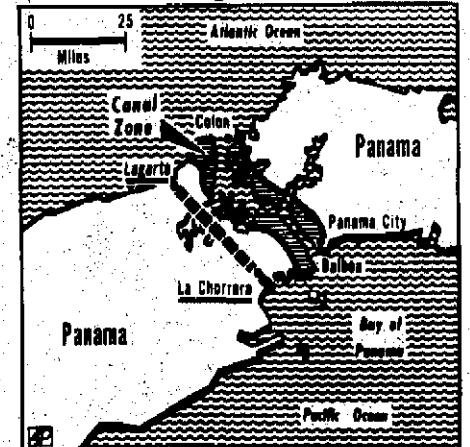

The casualties included 21 Panamanians and four Americans dead and scores wounded. There was massive property damage. Each side blamed the other for the violence.

Bunker, who was U.S. representative in the Organization of American States at the time, offered "to try to resolve our differences around the conference table."

Since then, four presidents have tried to establish a new

REACH AGREEMENT: United States chief negotiators Ellsworth Bunker (right) and Sol Linowitz confer Wednesday in Panama City. POSSIBLE NEW ROUTE: Dashed line on map shows where proposed new Panama Canal might be constructed by the U.S. The route is one of nine recommended to the President by the Atlantic-Pacific Inter-oceanic Canal Study Commission on Dec. 1, 1970, and would be about 10 miles west of the present canal. ## Slay Case Moved To U.S. Court

BAY CITY, Mich. (AP) — A 26-year-old Baldwin man has been arraigned in U.S. District Court on two charges of murder and one of attempted murder in a shooting on an Indian reservation June 30.

James Munier originally was arraigned in Isabella County Circuit Court. But at the request of a federal grand jury, the case was moved to federal court.

Munier is accused in the slaying of Janet Strong, 54, and her son, Eugene Strong, 43, and the wounding of her daughter, Sarah Johnson, 28.

Police said the shooting erupted in a mobile home on the Saginaw Chippewa Indian Reserve.

Munier was held in $100,000 bond on each charge at his appearance before U.S. Magistrate Irwin Hunley Wednesday.

Police said the triple shooting resulted from a domestic argument but gave no other details.

TO PRESENT ABORTION VIEWS IN LETTERS Carter Staffers Withdrawing Protest

WASHINGTON (AP) — Trying to avoid the appearance of an open fight with their boss, members of the Carter administration who oppose the President's position on abortion reportedly are withdrawing a memorandum expressing their disagreement. Instead, between 25 and 30 aides, most of them women, plan to send individual letters to Carter objecting to his belief that the federal government should not finance abortions for poor women, well-placed administration sources say.

The letters are expected to be delivered by early next week to Margaret Costanza, White House director of public liaison. She will take the sealed letters to Carter, the sources said Wednesday. Last week while a memorandum opposing the President's position was being circulated for the women's signatures, Health, Education and Welfare Secretary Joseph A. Califano Jr., ordered a halt to federal financing of all elective abortions. He acted after a federal judge lifted an order which had prevented the ban from taking effect.

Califano, like Carter, personally opposes abortion and wants no federal funds spent on such operations unless the life of the woman is in danger. The law under which Califano acted expires Sept. 30, and the House and Senate are deadlocked over how to deal with the question of federal funding for abortion for next fiscal year.

Asked what the personal letters to Carter will accomplish, one source said, "It gets it off my chest. The only good it will do is to give us a chance to try to persuade the President once more to change his mind, but he's probably heard all those arguments before." The source said that the White House aides were concerned that their objections to Carter's abortion stance would appear in the press. "The press is not the proper place for us to express our dissent," one source said. "We should do it privately."

Carol Foreman, assistant secretary of agriculture and one of those who will write Carter, said most of the women are in agreement that the government should finance abortions for poor women. "We support the right to abortions and its implications for low-income women," she said. The original memo to Carter was written after a group of about 35 women and three men met at the White House last month to express "outrage, anger and disappointment" at his abortion stand. Some of those who attended the meeting said they objected to a statement Carter had made at a press conference.

"There are many things in life that are not fair, that wealthy people can afford and poor people can't," Carter had said in his meeting with reporters. "But I don't believe that the federal government should take action to try to make these opportunities exactly equal, particularly when there is a moral factor involved." The women felt Carter was imposing his own moral and religious beliefs on public policy. Asked if she had any hope of changing Carter's mind, one source said, "It's a conscience thing. We feel an obligation to speak out."

Consumer's Power To Stand Trial

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Three men may continue their lawsuit against Consumers Power Co. seeking damages for a power line shock.

The state Court of Appeals on Wednesday reversed a Midland County Circuit Court ruling that dismissed the case.

It disagreed with Circuit

Court Judge James Rood, who had ruled that the plaintiffs hadn't presented enough facts to make a case against the Jackson-based utility.

The suit was filed after George Binder and brothers Ronald and Robert Heilig. They suffered electric shock burns when a pole they were using almost touched an overhead electrical wire owned by Consumers Power, causing an electric arc between the wire and pole.

The men were conducting routine maintenance of a water well on Binder's property. They argued that Consumers Power should have foreseen the well would be worked on.

Ferency Asks Campaign Fund Law Review; Says He's Short-Changed

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — Michigan's new campaign financing law is being studied by the Department of State because a Democratic gubernatorial candidate complained that he's being short-changed.

Zolton Ferency, one of four Democrats seeking the nomination, asked Secretary of State Richard Austin on Wednesday to review the law and determine whether individual cash campaign contributions qualify for public matching funds.

The law requiring contributions by check or "written instrument" is vague and tends to discriminate against people who don't have a checking account, he said.

Chris Thomas, chief of communications for the campaign finance reporting division of the Department of State, said attorneys would have to determine the intent of the law, which went into effect in June.

"This has an urgency because there are people out there receiving contributions. We don't want to discourage the small contributors," he said. Thomas indicated that candidates probably would be allowed to use the cash contributions to seek matching public funds as long they could produce signed pledge card identifying contributors.

Under the law, a candidate can spend up to $1 million in a campaign. For individual contributions of less than $100, the state will provide a candidate $2 for each $1 received in the form of a check.

Last week, Ferency said, the Rev. Clement Kern of Holy Trinity Parish in Detroit contributed $5 to his campaign. Father Kern attached the currency to a Ferency campaign pledge form.

"There are many thousands of people like Father Kern who do not have checking accounts but, nevertheless, want to participate in the political process by supporting candidates," Ferency said.

"I don't see how the State of Michigan can pass a law that says U.S. currency isn't legal tender when it comes to campaign contributions," added the Michigan State University criminal justice professor.

Ferency said that requiring people who don't have checking accounts to purchase a commercial note is burdensome, discouraging and reduces the value of their contributions.

"To me, that's rank discrimination and violates constitutional rights," he said.

In addition to Ferency, other Democrats running for governor are state Sens. William Fitzgerald of Detroit and Patrick McCollough of Dearborn and lawyer William Ralls of Okemos, a former member of the Public Service Commission.

A spokesman for Maxon Industries Inc. said Wednesday that Carpenter, 52, has served since Aug. 1 as president of the company's Mobile Equipment Division, which makes the one-man operated trash and compaction vehicles.

Rebels Promise 'Blitz' As Queen Winds Up Visit

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — The Irish Republican Army said today it had breached the tight security cordon around the University of Ulster, which Queen Elizabeth II was to visit later today, and vowed it would be a "day to remember" for the British monarch.

The IRA issued a strongly worded warning to authorities and to the queen: "Clear the university buildings of all civilians. Clear the grounds of children."

"Any bomb fatalities or serious casualties will be your responsibility Elizabeth (sic), your day to remember. This is no hoax."

"Elizabeth" is a derogatory IRA epithet for the queen.

The threat was received about an hour before the queen's scheduled visit to the university, about 45 miles north of here. A police spokesman said there were no plans to alter her schedule.

"We've had no specific information that there's anything to it," the police spokesman said of the warning.

A bomb exploded on the University of Ulster campus just two days ago.

The queen was in the second day of a two-day Silver Jubilee visit to strife-torn Northern Ireland.

The 51-year-old monarch has not yet personally witnessed any violence during her twoday visit, but her presence aggravated the bitter sectarian hostilities behind a rash of bombings and street clashes Wednesday.

Traveling by helicopter instead of motorcade as a security precaution, the queen was to attend a round of functions at the university, situated in Coleraine, on the northern tip of the province.

On Tuesday, a small one-pound bomb, believed placed by Irish Republican Army (IRA) sympathizers, exploded on the university's campus despite massive security checks in the area.

An unexploded bomb had been discovered at the university 11 days ago.

Hundreds of Roman Catholic extremists parading behind a banner calling Elizabeth the "Queen of Death" battled troops in violence-prone Belfast Wednesday.

Security forces blocked the illegal march and tried to disperse the crowds, but protesters responded by hurling bricks and bottles at the police and troops. At least 15 persons were injured and 20 or more demonstrators were arrested.

Before the march began, a small bomb exploded without warning along the planned parade route, injuring two persons. Two bombs blew up in nearby Londonderry, where another protest was staged.

Queen Elizabeth was 12 miles south of Belfast when the violence broke out Wednesday, attending a garden party at Hillsborough Castle and receiving a warm welcome from 2,500 carefully screened guests.

The queen later chatted briefly with the founders and leaders of the Peace People movement, Mairead Corrigan and Betty Williams, at an informal reception aboard the royal yacht Britannia.

"She is a warm, wonderful human being who obviously knows a lot about our problems," Mrs. Williams said of the queen. "She spoke to us about the courage of the Northern Ireland people."

The IRA's radical Provisional wing had promised to unleash a "blitz to remember" for the queen's arrival in Northern Ireland, her first visit here in 11 years.

The IRA and other Catholics want to end British rule and Protestant majority domination of Northern Ireland and to unite the province with the largely Catholic Irish Republic to the south.

But the million-strong Protestant majority supports continued British rule.

Nightmare Ends With Six Dead

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen of them fell before the year-long nightmare ended. Six died.

On Wednesday night, police arrested David Berkowitz, a 24-year-old Yonkers postal worker, the man they believe struck at all 13. The .44-caliber killer. The Son of Sam.

The killer's first victim, Donna Lauria, 18, was shot and killed on July 28, 1976, as she and a girlfriend sat in a car outside their Bronx apartment. Her companion, Jody Valente, 19, was wounded.

His last victim was Stacy Moskowitz, 20, who died from a gunshot wound in the head three days after the anniversary of Miss Lauria's death.

Most of the victims were women, many with long hair. All were young. The combination stirred an overwhelming fear in the New York City boroughs of the Bronx and Queens, where his first seven attacks occurred. The fear spread to Brooklyn, where the Son of Sam struck his eighth and most recent time.

The surprising Brooklyn shooting intensified the fear. It seemed that no area in the city or its environs was safe.

The fear caused young women to cut their hair and avoid the bitters' lanes he favored.

After his first attack, the killer struck at intervals ranging from 5 to 13 weeks.

Last October 28, Carl Denaro was wounded as he sat in a car with his girlfriend in Flushing, Queens. Less than a month later, on Nov. 27, Joan Lomini and Donna DiMasi were shot.

Son Of Sam Suspect Captured!

Breslin, were chilling:

"Because Craig is Craig."

"So must the streets."

"Be filled with Craig (death)."

"And huge drops of lead."

"Poured down upon her head."

"Until she was dead."

"Yet, the cats still come out at night to mate."

"And the sparrows still sing in the morning."

Police said Craig was a deputy sheriff in Westchester County, where Yonkers is located. They said he lived in the apartment below Berkowitz.

There were conflicting reports as to the origin of the name "Son of Sam."

Police said Berkowitz, whose mother is dead and whose father, Nat, reportedly lives in Miami, told them Son of Sam was a 6,000-year-old voice which had spoken to him over the years. They said he told them he communicated with Sam through a dog.

The ticket was issued to Berkowitz' car near Shore Road along the Brooklyn waterfront, where it was illegally parked, police said.

The connection between the ticket and the shootings of Miss Moskowitz and Valente came from a middle-aged woman walking her dog, police said. She apparently came face to face with the killer.

Police, who refuse to identify the witness, said the woman told them she saw officers ticket the car.

Moments later, a young man "came right up to her, five feet away, and looked right in her face, saw that she was middle-aged, and turned and and wounded as they sat in a car in Floral Park, Queens.

The second murder took place on Jan. 30 of this year. Christine Freund, 26, was shot to death as she sat with her boyfriend in a car in Forest Hills, Queens.

Virginia Voskerichian, 19, was murdered March 8 as she walked down a Forest Hills street. It was a block away from the scene of Miss Freund's murder.

It was at this point the police revealed that the three murders might be related. A first description was released and authorities appealed to the public for help in tracking the killer.

Three more persons were to die as frustrated police combed the city.

On April 17, Alexander Esau, 19, and Valentina SURIAMI, 14, WERE SHOT TO DEATH AS THEY SAT IN A CAR IN THE Bronx, five blocks from where Miss Lauria died.

After those murders, police said a note had been left at the bloody Bronx scene. The killer identified himself as "Son of Sam." He vowed to strike again. A month later, he sent a second letter to New York Daily News columnist Jimmy Breslin.

From the notes, police said the killer was a "paranoid, neurotic schizoid."

On July 29, police braced for the anniversary of the first killing, but Son of Sam did not strike.

Two days later he reappeared. Miss Moskowitz and Robert Violante, 20, were shot in the head as they sat in a Brooklyn bitters' lane early that Sunday morning.

Miss Moskowitz, sections of her brain shattered, died a day later. One of Violante's eyes was destroyed and the other may also be lost.

But in the last murder, police obtained their best clues of the year-long search. New witnesses, including the wounded Violante, provided better descriptions of the gunman.

Wednesday night, during a routine check of parking tickets issued in the area where Miss Moskowitz was shot in Brooklyn, police journeyed to Yonkers and arrested Berkowitz.

walked away. He carried a dark object in his right hand," said one detective.

The frightened woman ran home.

"She was standing on her stoop unleashing her dog when she heard the shots and the sound of a horn," said the detective.

The woman, afraid Son of Sam might stalk her, waited four days before contacting police. She told them about the traffic ticket, and police searched through all tickets issued in the early hours of July 31. It led them to Berkowitz.

"The car is the key," a police spokesman said.

Berkowitz was arrested a day after police released 25,000 copies of the latest in a series of composite sketches drawn from descriptions given by witnesses to the shootings.

Berkowitz had dark, wavy hair like the man in the sketch but otherwise did not much resemble him. He is heavier than Son of Sam was described, and his eyes are round rather than almond-shaped as the sketch suggested.

The suspect was brought to police headquarters about 1 a.m. under heavy police guard. Handcuffed, he was smiling slightly as police ushered him through a crowd of reporters.

He wore frayed blue jeans, an open blue sports shirt and worn tennis shoes.

Neighbors said Berkowitz was a shy man who didn't fraternize with his neighbors.

"I guess he just kept to himself," said Edna Williams, who lived next door. "I didn't even know if a guy or a girl lived there. Now I'm just really shocked."

Another neighbor, newsboy Frankie Resto, 14, said, "He's a nice guy. He kept to himself. Sometimes he wouldn't pay for two or three weeks, so he would just slip the money under the door."

The Son of Sam was the focus of one of the most intensive manhunts in the city's history. More than 300 officers formed a task force that picked over the clues left by the killer.

The crimes bore marked similarities. But there were also differences. One was the hair style of the murderer as reported by witnesses. Police theorized he wore a wig.

The killer's latest victims, on their first date, were gunned down under a full moon shortly after 2:30 a.m. Sunday, July 31.

Miss Moskowitz died 38½ hours later of gunshot wounds to the head.

Violante, also 20 and also shot through the head, lost one eye in the attack and may have lost the sight in the other eye. The last sight he saw, however, was Son of Sam crouched as he shot, and his description helped police put together the new composite.

The sketch was based on the descriptions of a half dozen new eyewitnesses, including Violante and a youth identified only as "Tommy Z," who police said saw the shooting in the rear view mirror of his car.

'Sam' Suspect Mystery Even To His Neighbors

YONKERS, N.Y. (AP) — David Berkowitz, the 24-year-old postal worker and ex-soldier who police have arrested and believe is the .44-caliber killer known as "Son of Sam," is a mystery even to his closest neighbors.

Police were led to Berkowitz by a traffic ticket issued July 31 along the waterfront street in Brooklyn where the .44-caliber killer claimed his last victims, Stacy Moskowitz and Robert Violante.

Miss Moskowitz died of a bullet wound to the head. Violante, also shot in the head, may be permanently blinded.

Berkowitz moved into his seventh-floor $238-a-month studio apartment in April 1976, four months before the Son of Sam claimed his first victim.

Police found two shotguns, empty liquor bottles, folders containing maps of Connecticut, Long Island, Westchester and the five boroughs of the city in the litter-strewn apartment.

Berkowitz' next-door neighbor and newsboy, Frankie Resto, 14, described Berkowitz as a polite man who guarded his privacy.

"I guess he just kept to himself. He would open the door and stand there so I couldn't see in," Resto said.

"Sometimes, he wouldn't pay for two or three weeks, so he would just slip the money under the door."

Last Christmas, Berkowitz gave the newsboy $30.

Mantel Sosa, the building superintendent, said United Parcel Service delivered a large package to Berkowitz about six months ago. He said the package had a picture of a rifle on the outside. Berkowitz came home late that night, he said, picked up the package, and walked quietly to his apartment.

Mrs. Edna Williams, Berkowitz' next-door neighbor in the apartment house in a multi-racial neighborhood on the outskirts of Yonkers, said she had never seen him.

But one night about three months ago, Mrs. Williams recalled hearing a loud noise from her neighbor's apartment.

"At four or five in the morning, I heard a noise. It sounded like thunder. I woke up and saw a crack in the wall," she said.

But Mrs. Williams said she had never seen her neighbor.

"I didn't know if a guy or a girl lived there. Now I'm really just shocked," she said.

"I'm glad he didn't kill me. I was really petrified of Son of Sam and I didn't know where he was going to strike next."

"He was really nice to us," Joanne Resto said. "We never had any problems with him."

'Blues' Defend Board Policy

DETROIT (AP) — Top executives of Michigan Blue Cross-Blue Shield have issued a staunch defense of the way they choose and reject board nominees. The company must be protected against "someone who might function in an inappropriate or irresponsible manner, whether he represents business, labor, the hospitals, the medical profession, or some other interested group," said James Woodruff, Blues board chairman, and John McCabe, president, in a statement issued after three state lawmakers called for a review of the process. The executives said they consider the current system, under which the board can accept or reject any nominee, valid. The legislators said in a letter to Woodruff Wednesday that they were concerned about "procedural questions" that arose when the board recently voted 41-30 not to reinstate consumer advocate Charles Chomel. Chomel, who was nominated by state Insurance Commissioner Thomas Jones, had publicly accused the Blues of mismanagement during his first term on the board. He also had criticized a $15,000 pay raise the board recently gave to McCabe, boosting his salary to $110,000 annually.

Writing Similar On Two Notes

NEW YORK (AP) — Police say the handwriting on a note seized following the arrest of a suspect in the "Son of Sam" murders resembles that in the hand-lettered note sent to Daily News Columnist Jimmy Breslin two months ago.

In each case the letters are carefully formed, and lines that would normally be horizontal, such as the lines used to make the "e" or the line used to cross a "t" had a somewhat assertive upward tilt.

The letter from the killer to Breslin opened with the salutation: "Hello from the gutters of NYC which are filled with dog manure, vomit, stale wine, urine and blood."

In the letter he warns that he is still prowling the city streets. "Like a spirt roaming the night. Thirsty, hungry, seldom stopping to rest; anxious to please

Sam. I love my work."

An earlier note was left for police between the bodies of Valentina Suriani, 19, and her boyfriend, Alexander Esau, also 19. Both were shot to death near Miss Suriani's home in the Bronx.

The Suriani-Esau killings were just a few blocks from the home of Donna Lauria, 18, the first person known to have been slain by the killer.

Miss Lauria died July 28, 1976; and in his letter to Breslin the killer mentioned the then-upcoming anniversary of her death.

"She was a very sweet girl, but Sam's a thirsty lad and he won't let me stop killing until he gets his fill of blood."

At the time the letter was written, some 30 detectives had been assigned to the case. The killer said in his note:

"Upon my capture, I promise to buy all the guys working on the case a new pair of shoes. If I can get up the money."

The latest note — one of several police said they found when they arrested David Berkowitz, 24, in Yonkers on Wednesday night — reads as follows:

"Because Craig is Craig."

"So must the streets."

"Be filled with Craig (death)."

"And huge drops of lead."

"Poured down upon her head."

"Until she was dead."

"Yet, the cats still come out at night to mate."

"And the sparrows still sing in the morning."

Police said Craig was a deputy sheriff in Westchester County, where Yonkers is located. They said he lived in the apartment below Berkowitz.

Serve Others, SMC Grads Told

DOWAGIAC — Summer graduates of Southwestern Michigan college here were told last night to use their education for the good of the nation, community and then themselves.

Dr. George E. Potter, speaker for the outdoor commencement, said the graduates should become involved in civic and community affairs.

Service to others, he indicated, should come before their own personal needs.

As an example of what can be done, Dr. Potter, cited Dr. Fred

L. Mathews, chairman of SMC's board of trustees.

Dr. Mathews was a prime mover in the drive to create SMC in the mid-1960s and has been its leader ever since.

Potter, is chairman of the board of trustees of Jackson Community College and an attorney in the law partnership of Anderson, Patch, Rosenfeld, Potter and Grover. He is also president of the Association of Community College Trustees.

The commencement was the 11th summer commencement since the college's founding. It was attended by about 400 people and was held on the terrace of the Fred L. Mathews library.

Four Niles residents were announced as honors graduates during the program. They were Barbara DePoy, Ann Forsgren, Jenn Johnson and Vicki Rodebush. Each maintained a 2.5 grade point average in all classes in earning their two-year associate degrees.

Other students from southwestern Michigan receiving two-year degrees were Betty Fortier, Cynthia Lietzke and Teri Miller, Niles; John Perry, Eau Claire; Margaret Barnum, Rose Jackson, Cherie Linnson and Randall Putnam, Dowagiac.

Receiving one-year practical nursing certificates were Janet Ackles, Deborah Dawling, Beverly Jackson, Lauren Koster and Maurree O'Brien, Niles; Nora Alderman, Lawrence; Marilyn Ashman, William Aslin, Lori Brokowski, Richard Glowacki, Dolina Grabemeyer, and Elaine Jacobson, Dowagiac; Susan Baker, Nancy Martin and Jeanette Spooner, Cassopolis; Betty Ferrel, Eau Claire; Alexis Guerrero, Paw Paw; Laverne Hayes, Buchanan; Pamela Hill, Waterbury; Sandra Maurer, Bloomingdale; Theresa McFarlin, Bangor; Katherine Smith and Linda Wickett, Decatur.

Receiving emergency medical technician certificates were Pat McMichael, and Janet Stow, Cassopolis, and Ed O'Neill, Dowagiac.

Receiving nurse assistants certificates were Donna Courtney, Cynthia Gard and Virginia Goodwin, Dowagiac; Robalyn Hyebeck, Karen Reid, Sheila Siedendorf and Ladonna Smith, Niles; Roberta Kelter and Nancy Nathaniel, Cassopolis.

Gobles Calls Hearing On Apartments Plan

GOBLES — A second hearing has been scheduled on the proposal of a Paw Paw man who wants to build apartments and accompanying horse riding trails here.

The Gobles city commission last night scheduled the hearing for its Sept. 14 meeting to decide on a request by Gary Bouchard who wants to build four, four-unit apartments and riding trails off West Van Buren street.

Bouchard had asked that two acres of the 20-acre parcel be rezoned from residential to agriculture, but last night asked the commission to approve the proposed Homestead Enterprise without a zoning change.

Several residents attended a July city commission hearing on the project to question whether two acres would be enough land for the stables and riding trails.

In other areas, Gordon Zantello was appointed to fill a commission seat made vacant by the resignation of Anthony Kasher.

Zantello is 35, a Gobles native and is currently working for Pasey Plumbing in Kalamazoo. His term expires Jan. 1, 1979.

The commission also voted to donate $200 to the Van Buren county Youth Services; accepted the low bid of $6,690 submitted by Reith-Hiley Construction of Kalamazoo for asphalt construction of a basketball court in the city park; and was told by the city clerk that of 400 questionnaires sent out on the city's proposed sewer construction, 90 have been returned with 51 against the project and 39 in favor.

Wholesale Prices Take Second Dip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices declined for the second month in row in July as farm and processed food prices kept dropping, the Labor Department said today.

The decline of one-tenth of a per cent in the wholesale price index was not so big as the seven-tenths decrease the month before. But it marked the first two-month drop since winter, 1976.

Wholesale price changes usually show up at the consumer level eventually, but so far grocery store food prices have continued going up. They rose eight-tenths of a per cent in the latest consumer report in June.

The price of raw farm products declined in July 1.8 per cent after a 6.8 per cent decline the month before. In the last three months, farm prices have dropped 10.6 per cent, on a seasonally adjusted basis.

Contributing more to the July decline, however, were processed foods and feeds, such as vegetable oils, animal fats and sugar. They dropped 2.4 per cent after a 1.7 per cent decline the month before.

Prices of industrial commodities went up one-half of a per cent after seasonal adjustment, after a rise of three-tenths of a per cent in June.

The two-month decline in the over-all index followed nine consecutive months of price increases. The last back-to-back decline in prices was a two-tenths of a per cent drop in January 1976 and a four-tenths drop the following month.

The July report was good news for administration economists, who are counting on inflation to slow a bit in the second half of the year.

BLOOMINGDALE Park Development Plan Is Approved

BLOOMINGDALE — The Bloomingdale village council last night approved an agreement with the federal Soil Conservation Service for development of the village park.

Under the agreement, the SCS will provide a grant of $7,375 for cost of materials to be used in tilling, sodding and seeding the park's ballground, picnic area and undeveloped area. The Bloomingdale Park and Recreation commission will then maintain the park.

In other areas, the council accepted the lone bid of Van Horn Construction Co., Bloomingdale, for construction of curbs, gutters, and sidewalks in the parking area along North Van Buren street.

As the only bidder on the project, the firm submitted two bids, one for $5,181 and an alternate bid of $2,910. The board approved a contract, pending approval of both parties concerning what specifications would be used.

The council approved donating $200 to the Van Buren County Commission on Aging and announced the Bloomingdale Park and Recreation commission's annual pig roast and picnic will be held at the park Monday, Sept. 5

Utilities Say Carter Plan May Add Billions To Bills

WASHINGTON (AP) — Power company representatives are telling Congress that the Carter administration's energy proposals could cost consumers an extra $80 billion. The Senate Finance Committee, continuing hearings on the President's plan despite a congressional recess, is hearing today from the utility officials.

The $80 billion estimate comes from the Edison Electric Institute, an organization representing private, investor-owned utilities. The institute based its estimate on what it says companies would have to spend on coal-burning equipment, the taxes they would have to pay for continuing to use oil and natural gas and the cost of installing new types of meters. The House-passed version of the President's program, now before the tax-writing Senate committee, is intended to change how electricity is used while cutting the amount of oil and natural gas utilities consume.

Backers of the program say they don't know how much it would cost consumers. They say the proposed changes have never been tried all at once and add that local conditions would affect the program's price tag. Under the plan, all utilities would be required to inter-connect transmission lines to shift surplus power where it is needed.

Utilities would also be banned from offering discounts to large industrial users. Power to all customers would be priced the same, with rate cuts allowed only to low-income households. Power used during periods of peak demand, such as late afternoon, would be more costly as an incentive to spread the use of power throughout the day and to make home insulation more practical. Meters would be installed to record when and how much electricity is used.

The administration and managers of the House-passed bill say an electricity network and the revised billing procedures would reduce individual power companies' needs to build more plants to handle peak demands that last only a few hours a day. The costs of new plants is frequently a big factor in utility company arguments for higher rates.

In testimony before the panel Wednesday, representatives of General Motors, Ford and Chrysler opposed taxes on gas guzzling cars, saying these models are the mainstay of low and middle-income families that have only one car. The auto makers said other federal fuel economy standards scheduled to go into effect in 1981 were more realistic and would lead to greater fuel conservation.

Testifying before another congressional committee, Federal Energy Administrator John F. O'Leary said Wednesday that a proposed California-Texas pipeline could transport Alaskan oil cheaply and efficiently to the Midwest. O'Leary told a House energy subcommittee that the government supports building at least one pipeline immediately.

He noted, however, that the government has no authority to select a route for the facility. Several companies have proposed pipelines over different courses.

State Seeking To Save EPA Funds For Detroit

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) won't be able to give $345 million in federal funds to anybody but Detroit and its suburbs if a state request is honored.

Atty. Gen. Frank Kelley was to ask the U.S. District Court in Detroit today to freeze the money, which the area could lose because of a pollution suit pending against the city.

The EPA is suing the city for failing to meet federal water quality standards by inadequately treating sewage that flows into the Detroit River. The state has joined in the suit.

The EPA has refused to commit the federal money to Michigan until higher sewer rates are approved by the city and 76 suburban communities served by Detroit's waste treatment plant, Kelley said.

But the money could be split among other states if it is not committed to Michigan by Sept. 30, Kelley said.

The city agreed to double its sewer rates earlier this month, but the other communities have not yet had time to vote on them.

About $291 million of the federal money would go to Detroit. Combined with revenues from the higher rates, it would fund construction of better waste treatment facilities.

The remaining $51 million would be split among the suburbs to help pay for construction of storm sewers and other improvements.

"The EPA has insisted that all Detroit's complex problems be resolved by Sept. 30," Kelley said. By refusing to pledge the money now, he said, "EPA has placed the entire project in danger."

"Our main priority in this case is to end the pollution of the Detroit River," he said. "We will not stand by and let the necessary funds slip away while federal bureaucrats refuse to work toward solving the problem."

A loss of the funds would not only hamper improvements in the system but also would deny the area an estimated 13,000 new jobs that would be created by the construction project.

A spokesman for Kelley said efforts last week to work out an agreement with the EPA failed. The spokesman said the attorney general's office wanted the EPA to pledge the money now and agree not to seek fines against the city.

In its suit, the EPA asks the court to levy fines of up to $10,000 a day against Detroit for violating federal standards it was to have met by July 1.

George Alexander, regional EPA administrator in Chicago, said Thursday that federal law requires the city to provide local money for waste treatment improvements before it can get the federal grant.

"We have been trying to force this rate increase now for several months," he said. "It's just what the law requires."

"Without that there's no way we can make the grants," he said.

CHEAP OIL: Federal Energy Administrator John O'Leary, appearing before a House energy subcommittee Wednesday, said a proposed California-Texas pipeline would transport Alaskan oil cheaply and efficiently to the East and the Midwest. He said the administration declines to endorse any specific west-to-east pipeline project. (AP Wirephoto)

Soo Challenges 'Reservation'

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich. (AP) — In an effort to avoid "an administrative nightmare" the city of Sault Ste. Marie is trying to stop the U.S. Department of Interior from creating an Indian reservation inside the city limits.

The city has filed a lawsuit in U.S. District Court in Washington D.C., challenging plans to convert an 80-acre tract on the east side of town into a Chippewa Indian reservation.

Officials in this city of 18,000 say they object to the reservation because city police would not have jurisdiction there and local codes and ordinances would not apply.

"The result would be an administrative nightmare," said Mayor Gerald Peters at a news conference called to announce the suit Wednesday.

The Chippewas, who bought the land last year, want to build a 65-unit development for low-income families and the elderly in a largely undeveloped section of the city known as the Mar-Shank area.

The tribe said it wants the land to preserve Indian heritage and to provide badly needed low-income housing.

The status of the Indian reservation trust land remains unclear and this has a potentially harmful effect on the bonding, special assessment, taxing, police powers and other administrative functions of the city," according to Mayor Gerald Peters.

The city alleges the Interior Department's proposal is "an abuse of discretion" and contrary to the Interior Department's own administrative regulations. The city alleged the federal agency excluded Sault Ste. Marie from the decision-making process by leaving it out of any formal notice of intent to take the action.

The U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development, which would pick up the $2.8 million tab for the project, is withholding funds until the city's differences with the tribe are settled. The city earlier this year filed an administrative appeal against the designation of land as a trust, but is taking the additional legal action because it feels the city's rights are in jeopardy, a city statement said.

Meteor Shower Due Friday

DETROIT (AP) — If the weatherman cooperates, Michigan residents will have a chance to see a spectacular sky-show Friday.

A meteor shower, part of an annual celestial event called the Perseids, will be peaking about 1 a.m.

"If you look in the early morning before sunrise, you should see an average of about a shooting star a minute," said Thomas Stockley, chairman of the astronomy and astrophysics section at Michigan State University.

A word of caution came from Hazel Lesh, professor emerita of astronomy at the University of Michigan, who said, "The meteor shower is not as sure as an eclipse. You might see one, you might see 40. It will not be like a fireworks display."

Martha Schaeffer, planetary coordinator at Cranbrook Institute of Science, told would-be watchers that the farther away people get from city lights, the more meteors they are likely to see.

U.S. Steel Will Clean Up Water

CHICAGO (AP) — U.S. Steel Corp. has agreed on a timetable to install $84.7 million worth of water recycling equipment at its giant Gary Works, concluding a seven-year suit filed against steelmakers polluting Lake Michigan water.

The agreement Wednesday settled a suit initiated by Illinois Atty. Gen. William J. Scott. It came a week after Scott won a major court battle against the city of Milwaukee and two Wisconsin sewerage districts, forcing them to install advanced antipollution equipment to halt discharge of disease-causing germs into the lake.

The settlement with U.S. Steel, ordered by Judge George J. Schaller of Circuit Court, marked the latest in a series of successful court actions by Scott to reduce pollution of the lake by the region's steelmakers. Previously he was the victor in suits against Republic Steel, Interlake Steel, Youngstown Sheet and Tube and Inland Steel.

Scott also was successful earlier in a suit to force the installation of antipollution equipment at U.S. Steel's South Chicago Works.

Scott said in a statement that the settlement "marks the end of a historic chapter in our battle to save the lake."

"This momentous decision means that every steel mill in the gigantic Chicago-Gary (Ind.) steelmaking complex, the largest in the world, will now recycle and reuse its waste waters rather than dumping them in the lake," Scott said.

The chief counsel for Scott's office, which was joined in the suit by the Chicago Metropolitan Sanitary District, was Joseph Karagantis, who also led the legal team that won the Milwaukee case in U.S. District Court.

Under the agreement, U.S. Steel must cut its discharges at the Gary Works by 80 per cent, and pay $500,000 in court costs, half in the state and half to the sanitary district. Starting in 1979 and concluding by Aug. 31, 1985, the company must construct and operate advanced waste-treatment recycle and filtration facilities for all steel-making activities.

The settlement requires the company to recycle or treat all process water going into the Calumet River and bars the discharge of any process water directly into the lake.

REAR-END CRASH HAZARD

Critic Claims Pinto Gas Tanks Unsafe

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Distortions and half-truths" is how a Ford Motor Co. executive describes charges by Consumer advocate Ralph Nader and a West Coast magazine that the firm sold its Pinto cars for six years even though they knew the fuel tank could rupture in rear-end crashes.

But John Claybrook, head of the Transportation Department's National Traffic Safety Administration, said she was "extremely concerned" and said the magazine had been asked for its files on the Pinto.

"Based on that examination, we will open an investigation if the evidence has substance," she said.

Nader has urged an immediate recall of three million Pintos now on the road.

Nader appeared at a news conference to back charges contained in the September-October issue of Mother Jones, a California-based publication with about 150,000 subscribers.

The article's author, Mark Dowle, also at the news conference, claimed Ford President Lee Iacocca was in a rush to start producing the subcompact Pinto in 1970. Dowle said the company ignored tests showing the tank was susceptible to gas leakage after an accident because it was too close to the rear bumper.

"This is a story of corporate callousness at the highest level of Ford Motor Co.," Nader said.

He said Ford should recall all three million Pintos with vulnerable fuel tanks and install tanks with inexpensive fuel cells.

Nader described a fuel cell as a tough nylon-rubber bladder that fits inside a metal tank and would not spill gasoline if the outer tank were ruptured. He estimated the cost of the fix at about $11 per car.

The 1977 models would not be affected by any recall. The article said Ford modified the 1977 Pintos.

In Detroit, Herbert L. Misch, Ford's vice president for environmental and safety engineering, said: "We are examining in detail the allegations made in the article, which contains distortions and half truths, and will comment further when we have completed our analysis of them."

Dowle said the information for his article came from internal Ford documents which he had obtained.

He estimated that more than 500 persons have died in Pinto fires since the car first came out in 1970. He said that company documents show every rear-end crash test conducted by the company at more than 20 miles per hour resulted in a ruptured fuel tank.

ROMAN T. PLASZCZYK
Seeks Judgeship

Ex-Paw Paw Man Seeks Kalamazoo Circuit Judgeship

KALAMAZOO — A former Paw Paw man is one of 17 attorneys seeking appointment by Gov. Milliken in a vacant Kalamazoo circuit court judge's position.

Roman T. Plaszczyk, a 1961 graduate of Paw Paw high school, has indicated that he is a candidate for the post held by the late Judge Raymond W. Fox, who died June 18.

According to Atty. Allen Enderle, who heads the selection committee for the Kalamazoo Bar association, all bar members were sent letters asking them to indicate if they were interested in the position. Bar members were then given an opportunity to rate those attorneys who said they wished to be considered, Ennderle said.

The results have been forwarded to Gov. Milliken, who is expected to announce his appointment sometime this fall, Ennderle said.

Plaszczyk is a partner in the Kalamazoo law firm of Jenkins, Plaszczyk, Silaski, and Hurley, and a former Muskegon county assistant prosecutor. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Plaszczyk, who operate the Sea Land Air travel service in Paw Paw.

Plaszczyk, 33, graduated from Western Michigan university in 1965, and the Detroit College of Law in 1968.

He served as captain in the military police during the Vietnam war and holds a degree in criminal justice from Michigan State university.

Other candidates include Kalamazoo district court judges John E. Fitzgerald, Kenneth Fricke, Donald E. James, Thomas McKinley, Charles A. Pratt, and Peter M. Westra.

Also, attorneys David Bucklin, Richard Ensten, Jewell Gray, Richard Lamb, Alexander McCall, Stephen Moulton, C.H. Mullen, William J. Ryan, Frederick A. Sower, Jr., and Laurence T. Urledge.

COMPLAINT REJECTED

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Authorities have rejected a news photographer's complaint contending that movie director Roman Polanski assaulted him and stole his film after he snatched a picture of Polanski kneeling at the grave of his dead wife, actress Sharon Tate.

Blood Van Strike Limits Surgery

DETROIT (AP) — Only patients whose lives are in danger will get blood today at hospitals in southeastern Michigan as a strike by 16 Red Cross bloodmobile operators continued.

Most of the 80 hospitals in the area were postponing elective surgery because of the walkout, now in its second day.

The strike shut down 15 blood centers in the Detroit area, where nurses refused to cross picket lines set up by Teamsters Union Local 290.

"It's a disaster," Dr. Sheikh Saeed, director of the blood bank at Henry Ford Hospital, said Wednesday. "When I have to tell some lady that I can't operate on her son who's acutely ill, I consider that a serious matter."

Some of the hospitals' blood supplies will only last a few days, officials said. The Red Cross is the sole supplier for many of them.

The larger facilities were seeking blood contributions from employees staff members.

On an average day, the Red Cross carries 900 pints of blood in five counties around Detroit, offit.

Dr. William Shafer, director of the Southeastern Michigan Red Cross Blood Center, added, "It's almost inconceivable to me that 16 people would be willing to jeopardize the well being of 4½ million people in this community, but that's essentially what they are doing."

The Teamster truck drivers walked out early Wednesday after bargaining failed to reach agreement on a new contract. The Teamsters want pay raises amounting to 81 per cent over three years, Shafer said. The Red Cross is offering 30 per cent. The drivers' current hourly wage is $1.88.

A spokesman for Harper Hospital in Detroit said three open heart surgery operations were cancelled Wednesday because of the strike. The University of Michigan Hospital at Ann Arbor limited surgical admissions to the most serious cases.

Wayne County General Hospital cancelled elective surgery and told those patients to come back when the strike ends. Officials at Holy Cross Hospital in Detroit considered undertaking similar measures if the strike lasts more than a day or two.

Gerber Stockholder Sues For Bid Price Dip Loss

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich. (AP) — A Gerber Products Co. stockholder is suing in U.S. District Court for damages stemming from a lowering of the bid price for Gerber shares by a Houston food conglomerate that wants to take over the company.

The suit, filed Tuesday for New Jersey shareholder Larry Berman by the New York law firm of Bagin & Silverman, sought $8 in damages for each share of common stock in the nation's biggest baby food maker.

The suit was filed as a class action on behalf of all stockholders except company officers named as defendants, who hold about one million shares. At $8 a share, damages of other stockholders would exceed $8 million.

The suit stems from Gerber officials' opposition to a takeover attempt by Anderson, Clayton & Co. of Houston.

Anderson, Clayton offered to buy Gerber's 8.1 million shares at $40 per share. Just prior to the mid-April tender offer by the Texas firm, Gerber shares sold for $32 per share.

A drop in Gerber first-quarter earnings resulted in a reduction of the bid by Anderson, Clayton to $37 per share.

Michael Yandovich, an attorney for Bagin & Silverman, emphasized that the suit was based on the difference of the market price and the offer when it was first tendered.

According to federal court rules, a plaintiff gets the court's permission to turn the suit into a class action. Berman, who owns 80 shares, intends to ask for it, Yandovich said.

Gerber, based in nearby Fremont, Mich., attempted to block the Anderson, Clayton offer by filing suit in federal court charging violations of the anti-trust laws.

That suit and a companion state suit has put the takeover bid in limbo.

Anderson Clayton is barred by Michigan law from buying any more Gerber stock, until 60 days after the registration of its offer by the state Corporation and Securities Bureau, a registration not yet effective.

The Texas firm was required by the Michigan Court of Appeals to amend its registration statement to acknowledge payment of "inducements" to foreign officials. The firm is under a restraining order until Newaygo Circuit Judge Harold Van Dornelien and Hugh Makens, director of the securities bureau, are satisfied the registration statement has been amended fully.

ELIZABETH: Philip tells them in private

$6 Million TV Production Film In Need Of Big Star

TALENT RESEARCH: CBS is hunting for a big movie star who has never done television before, to star in the $6 million production of "The Dain Curse." This is the only still unproduced Dashiell Hammett novel. It's owned by Lillian Hellman and is from the late author's estate. The multi-million dollar TV film will start shooting in San Francisco this October. So far, the network hasn't come up with a real super star.

ROYAL SECRET: Prince Philip has a great reputation for telling dirty jokes and you might wonder if these upset Queen Elizabeth. Surprisingly not. A member of the Canadian press corps, who has covered the Royal family, told us that the Queen is not sledge and likes the bawdy jokes. Prince Philip tells her all the latest ones in private.

Q: Can you tell me why dark-haired John Travolta always seems so pale and never is tan? Is he allergic to the sun? — C. G. Temple City, Calif.

A: Travolta, like Marilyn Monroe, Jean Harlow, and even Paul Newman, has that rare translucent skin quality considered an asset in TV and movies. It's called "flesh impact." While Travolta stays out of the sun, he's not allergic to it, though he's very fair despite his dark hair. His eyebrows, for example, are so light they have to be dyed to match his hair; otherwise, Travolta's blue eyes would be lost in his pale face when being photographed.

DIET DILEMMA: Publisher Lyle Stuart was so impressed with the results he got from Dr. Robert Linn's protein supplement that Stuart himself wrote the foreword when he published Linn's book, "The Last Chance Diet." Stuart managed to drop 90 pounds by sticking to the diet, but unfortunately, by the time the book was back for another printing, the publisher had regained all the weight he lost. In the new edition, there is no longer a foreword by the now plump Mr. Stuart.

BRENDA'S WEDDING: What hasn't been publicized about Brenda Vaccaro's marriage is that her new husband, William Spencer Bishop, comes from a multi-million-dollar automotive family.

Q: What can you tell me about Esther Williams? Is she still alive and if so, does she still swim professionally? — R. S. Marion, Ind.

A: Esther Williams is alive and well living in Los Angeles but not swimming professionally anymore. She's a frequent guest at Hollywood parties and looked wonderful at a recent bash given by producer Ray Stark. Among the guests attending the Stark party were Peter Falk, Madeline Kahn, Stockard Channing, Sid Caesar and Don DeLuise. But Esther was the center of attraction.

WESTWARD HO! Bette Davis has decided to leave her Connecticut home and move to Los Angeles. After looking at lots of modern high-rise apartments, Bette remained true to her New England roots and took a colonial house in L.A. The actress, at 68, wants to be where the movie action is and so after

Contented Chickens Laying 'Organic' Eggs

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

FORRESTON, Ill. (AP) — Chickens cluck contentedly and lay organic eggs at Phillip Wubbena's modernized farm.

Wubbena, 47, sells 18,000 of his special white eggs each day, mainly to health food stores in the Chicago area. The current wholesale price is 85 cents a dozen.

"They are produced nature's way without harmful residue. They are as pure as the driven snow," he says. "They are more delicate and mellow than ordinary eggs. When they are cooked, the thick white stands up well around a full-colored, firm high yolk."

Wubbena gets shipments of day-old hybrid chicks from southern Illinois and immediately begins pampering them in two growing rooms twice the size of tennis courts, 11,000 to each room.

Ground corn cobs cover the floors of the insulated, fan-ventilated buildings. Controlled lighting shortens the growers' day to 10 hours, and when they become layers it will be lengthened to 14 hours.

Metal troughs contain special foods, grown on Wubbena's 240 acres, and pure water comes from his deep wells. The eggs are candied by a machine with a capacity of 13,000 an hour, eliminating those with blood spots and large air cells.

The chicks thrive happily for 24 weeks, growing into hens without the company of roosters, and are ready to move to more sumptuous quarters as layers.

The 22,000 layers they replace have been producing only a year and are sold to soup-making companies or to the area's farmers for more egg-laying. The chickens are bred and raised only to lay eggs. They would not be desirable as fryers, Wubbena says.

"We've found that the quality of an egg goes down after a hen has been producing for one year," he says.

Looking at the sea of white Leghorns in the growing rooms, Wubbena enthuses: "I love chickens. When I was first married I had 300 of them. I'd go out to collect the eggs and would be gone so long that my wife, Betty, would come looking for me. I'd be playing with the chickens."

When they are one week old, the chicks' beaks are inserted into an electric device that cuts off and cauterizes the pointed ends — a tedious process that takes two days to do them all. Also, the chicks' wings have been "dubbed," one joint severed to make flying unbalanced and trying it useless. Wubbena spots some roosters. "We'll get those roosters out of there," he says. "Maybe, in a batch of 100 chicks, five will be males. Several years ago, health food stores wanted fertile eggs. They thought they had the spark of life in them. It was rather senseless because fertility is killed when the eggs are refrigerated."

"Vegetarians won't touch fertile eggs. The only reason to have roosters is for hatching. It's a myth that a hen must have a rooster before it can lay an egg."

In the laying rooms, the hens live on a wire mesh floor. Droppings underneath are mechanically pushed into a pit which is emptied by a huge vacuum hose and used as the only fertilizer on the acres of corn, soybeans and oats. The fields are never sprayed with chemicals.

Hospital Fire Kills Patient

She'll Give Road Back To County

UNIONVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Mrs. Clifford Burger says she's willing to barter after the county accidentally sold her part of one of its highways for $5.

"I don't want to just give it back, so I proposed that if the county would gravel our lane at our farm, I'd give them their highway back," said the rural Unionville woman.

Mrs. Burger bought the 300-foot by 100-foot lot containing part of the road near Mystic in south-central Iowa at a tax sale in July. A Missouri man has offered her $4,500 for it.

County officials say the sale should be voided, since the road is a farm-to-market highway. But they can't figure out how to do it.

The county said it apparently had bought the lot in 1965, but that the sale never was decided to the county's secondary road department.

Witness Threat Suspect Waives Hearing; Bond Set At $50,000

A Three Oaks man who allegedly threatened to shoot a witness if the witness testified against him in a petty larceny case waived preliminary examination Wednesday in Berrien District court and was bound over to Circuit court.

George E. Grosse, 20, of US-12, Three Oaks, was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond on a charge of extortion. At arraignment last week, he also pleaded innocent to a charge of petty larceny.

He is accused of threatening Jeffrey A. Hirschke, an attendant at Sawyer Truck Plaza, Inc., Chikaming township, who alleged Grosse pumped gasoline into his car July 22 and left without paying. Hirschke was allegedly threatened on Aug. 1.

Rodney G. Robinson, 18, of 2418 Irving drive, and James W. Hudson, 19, of Beverly court, both of Benton Heights, demanded examinations in an armed robbery charges.

They were each jailed under $25,000 bonds after arraignments on charges of armed robbery of Mike's Market, Paw Paw avenue, Benton township. Some $200 in cash was taken during a robbery Tuesday evening, police said.

Charles Scott, 19, of 805 Highland avenue, Benton Harbor, demanded examination on a charge of writing an insufficient funds check for over $50, a felony charge, at Benton Harbor K-mart May 28. The check was for $111, the warrant stated. Bond of $1,500 was not posted.

Nancy Rose, 21, of 3515 Carolyn street, Coloma, demanded examination on a charge of writing an insufficient funds check for $51 at Comet True Value Hardware store, Benton township, July 23, 1976. She was released on $2,500 personal recognizance bond.

Scott O. Early, 17, of 1203 State street, St. Joseph, demanded a preliminary hearing. He is charged with breaking into St. Joseph high school Feb. 20. He was jailed under $1,000 bail.

In other cases, 13 people were sentenced on misdemeanor charges.

Willie Lee Bell, 29, Chicago, was sentenced to 90 days in jail yesterday after pleading guilty to disorderly person, loitering where heroin was being used, in Chikaming township Aug. 1, 1976. Dismissed was an original charge of delivery of heroin against Bell.

Offie Scott, 32, of Chicago, was sentenced to fine and costs of $200 for possession of marijuana in Lincoln township June 30.

Chikaming, New Buffalo Twp. Taxpayers Organize Council

NEW BUFFALO — A group of New Buffalo township and Chikaming township residents have organized a Taxpayer's Advisory Council.

The first formal meeting of the group has been scheduled for Friday, Aug. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the New Buffalo township hall, according to Jesse Howard, who spearheaded the group's formation. Henry Bragg has been named administrative chairman of the group, which numbers about 25.

The group in its first informal meeting called by Howard, voted to proceed with the following matters:

Edward Ohlme, New Buffalo township supervisor, will be requested to see that the Chikaming township water supply be resumed free of charge until a water table controversy is resolved, according to Howard.

The group also hopes to obtain a report on the legal status of dedicated roads in Cowdy Shores and Lakeside areas.

Howard said Ohlme will be asked to permit Bragg to conduct an audit of the 1977 tax assessment and tax fund distribution records of the township.

saying they want to save capital from overcrowding and to preserve neighborhoods of historical and architectural importance. (AP Wirephoto)

Moscow Officials Plan Model Communist City

By THOMAS KENT
Associated Press Writer

MOSCOW (AP) — City planners have slammed the brakes on urban development in Moscow, saying they want to save the capital from overcrowding and to preserve neighborhoods of historical and architectural importance.

Officials are enforcing a 1971 master plan that foresees the city's 7.8 million population growing only 6 per cent by 1990. The city's area of 338 square miles, slightly larger than New York, will also remain almost unchanged.

Meanwhile, major streets and parks throughout the city have been labeled "cultural reserves" whose pre-revolutionary architecture and layout cannot be modified. Many such areas are downtown, within a few blocks of the Kremlin and the main shopping areas.

"Our plan is being successfully carried out," Simon M. Matveyev, head of the Moscow Planning Institute's design work shop, said in an interview.

The Moscow plan calls for the development of the city as eight subunits of a million people each. Some parts of the city will have distinctive characteristics by 1990, with the southeastern part growing richer in universities and institutes and the eastern part filled with industrial and sports complexes.

Each subunit is to have its own industries, parks, stores and apartments. Half the population of Moscow's new residential districts now spends more than 90 minutes a day commuting to and from work, often on packed, crowding buses. Planners say they hope to cut this to 20-25 minutes by putting apartment buildings near people's jobs.

Accessibility to stores is also a problem for many Muscovites who live in new apartment developments that have grown faster than the retail store network. Buying a bottle of milk or a few groceries can mean more slow bus trips or long walks over muddy, unlandscaped lawns.

The city also hopes to increase the number of shops and restaurants to reduce ever-present lines.

The outward face of Moscow may change very little under the new plan, with the exception of additional parks and squares promised to break up urban monotony. Prefabricated 12- to 16-story buildings, long criticized here for their often drab, mass-produced look, will remain the standard for new construction.

The time and cost savings of prefab buildings are essential for the government's plan to build 100,000 new apartments a year and to abolish within a few years communal apartments, shared by several families.

Moscow traffic is expected to grow from about 400,000 vehicles at present to more than a million by 1990, much of it supposedly to be routed around the center city by high-speed roads.

Underground garages, praised in the official press as the answer to Moscow's growing parking problems, were acknowledged by Matveyev to be "an idea that is developing only slowly."

Czar Boris Godunov took the first stab at creating a Moscow city plan at the start of the 17th century. A string of different plans has been conceived since then. There were 1.8 million people here by the time of the Bolshevik Revolution in 1917 and by the 1930s the population was growing so rapidly that some officials felt Moscow could not cope with it.

A plan was seriously considered at that time to leave Moscow as a museum town and build a new capital nearby better equipped to deal with a growing population.

The 1971 master plan foresees the city occupying all the area inside what is now known as the Outer Ring Road, a circular road with a radius of 8½ miles around the center city, with most of the area outside the ring left for forests and parks. Threads of parkland leading from the road into the city center will supposedly form a conduit for fresh air from outside the Outer Ring Road to the area of the Kremlin and major stores.

Psychologist Now Casts Actors

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — It is said actors are nuts. Does it help, then, for a casting director to be a qualified psychologist?

"Yes, it really does," says Dr. Jerold Franks, 33, who left full-time psychology for show biz four years ago and since July has been casting director for ABC's "Barney Miller" and "Fish" series.

"I think one of the things lacking in the industry is compassion understanding and empathy," the good doctor said. "We all go through a certain amount of rejection."

"But I think it helps to understand that actors have more rejection than anybody else because the competition is rougher. So this (a background in psychology) does help me a great deal."

Franks, of Bradley Beach, N.J., educated at Boston

University and UCLA, says he got the show biz bug 14 years ago when, while still a student, he worked in Universal Studios' town division here.

He left that after getting his degrees and went to work as a psychologist at the Veterans Administration and in private practice here, he added. But in time, he returned to entertainment, first as an actors' agent, then as a casting director.

Why the shift? "Well, when I was at the VA, I was dealing primarily with drug addicts and alcoholics, and I really got to the point of feeling very negative about people in general," Franks explained.

"It's difficult enough to deal with life without having all that depression thrown in your face. And I really enjoy the (entertainment) industry tremendously. I really love the people in it."

"And so I decided to get back into it."

Franks estimates he interviews about 60 actors and actresses a week while "Barney Miller" and "Fish" are in production.

And, odd as it may sound, he says the job-seekers don't differ much from folks applying for work in other fields. Some arrive "exuding confidence," other display Grade-A jitters.

But as a group, he conceded, thespians are "much more insecure" than civilians "only because the competition is so much rougher. And once one makes it, it's harder to stay on top."

Reminder: The space shuttle Enterprise, which has stayed atop a Boeing 747 jet for several months of airborne playbacks tests, will be on television Friday morning on CBS, NBC and ABC.

The networks plan to cover the first in-flight separation of the Enterprise from the big jet, and the space shuttle's landing in a dry lake bed near Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Weather and equipment willing, live pictures of the separation — at about 24,000 feet — will be provided from a NASA chase plane.

ABC's coverage, lasting an hour, starts at 11 a.m. Eastern time, while CBS and NBC will start their half-hour shows at 11:30 a.m. EDT.

Western Michigan Given Edge In Tight MAC Race

PERRYSBURG, Ohio (AP) — The race for the Mid-American Conference football championship this season should be one of the closest in the league's 21-year history, sports writers and broadcasters concluded Wednesday.

Members of the media attending the annual press preview gave Western Michigan a slight edge over Ohio University in the title race while landing out first place votes to seven of the 10 teams in the league.

Western Michigan was the narrow choice over the Bobcats, totaling 713 points on the basis of 10 points for first and in descending order to a single point for a 10th place ballot. The Broncos were picked first on 31 of the 77 ballots cast.

Ohio University was named first on 33 ballots, but the Bobcats totaled just 681 points.

Following the top two, and with first place votes in parentheses, were defending champion Ball State (6) 553, Kent State (3) 382, Bowling Green (1) 462, Miami (2) 397, Central Michigan (1) 387, Toledo 287, Eastern Michigan 174, and Northern Illinois 109.

Elliot Uzelac, last year's conference coach of the year after turning the WMU program around and guiding the Broncos to a 7-4 mark after a 1-10 finish the previous season, feels his team is still in the rebuilding stage, despite the presence of tailback Jerome Persell, the leading returning rusher in the nation.

Bill Hess, starting his 20th season at the helm of the Bobcats, called Arnold Welcher a "great great back" and defensive end Steve Groves "truly a bona-fide All-American candidate."

Ball State Coach Dave McClain feels the Cardinals have a solid team, but admits the loss of All-MAC quarterback Art Yaroch and leading rusher Earl Taylor will be tough to overcome early in the season. At Kent State, Denny Fitzgerald cites no glaring weaknesses in any area, but also no areas of dominance. He expressed concern over the Flashers' lack of size.

Bowling Green's new head coach, former Michigan State mentor Denny Stolz, said he felt the Falcons would be solid offensively under the direction of quarterback Mark Miller but would have to improve defensively. Miami Coach Dick Crum said the Redskins would start six seniors, but pointed out they won three of their last five games last fall and exhibited optimism over that fact.

Roy Kramer, Central Michigan coach, bemoaned offensive line problems at CMU, while new Coach Chuck Stobart of Toledo displayed optimism over the Rockets' chances, citing quarterback Jeff Hupstall and linebacker Aaron Blivins as two of the best at their positions in the conference.

Eastern Michigan's Ed Chlebek stated the Hurons would be better, particularly on offense, where quarterback Steve Rakovits, fullback Doug Crisan and tailback Bobby Windon return.

Northern Illinois' Pat Culpper felt the Huskies had a great recruiting year and that they would have to depend on those newcomers a great deal.

Ball State — Veteran team that will have to replace "do-it-all" quarterback Art Yaroch and leading rusher Earl Taylor. Bright spots are receiving corps, defensive line anchored by tackle Rush Brown, and secondary, led by monster Maurice Harvey.

Bowling Green — Mark Miller is the top returning quarterback in the league and the offensive line is solid, receiving corps good. The Falcons must improve defense. Dastuckles Al Prosk and Jack Williams rated top-notch.

Central Michigan — Offensive backfield returns with quarterback Ron Rummel, fullback Mike Gray, and tailback Mose Rison. Tight end Wayne Schwalbach considered one of best. Blow to defense came when Ed Rykalski failed to recover from an injury and will probably be out for the season.

Eastern Michigan — In addition to the returning backfield, the Hurons return Ron Johnson, an All-MAC defensive back that may go in the first or second round draft, according to pro scouts.

Kent State — Defense will be led by linebackers Jack Lazor, Mike McKibbin and Ben Batton, while quarterback Mike Whalen returns to lead the offense.

Miami — Redskins will again depend on defense, led by All-MAC first teamers Jack Gwolk and middle guard, and Greg Sullivan at end. Will have to replace running back Rob Carpenter.

Northern Illinois — Huskies will have to depend on freshmen and sophomores, with top returning veteran probably being sophomore linebacker Frank Lawandowski. Western Michigan returns as many quality veterans as does Ohio, where in addition to Welcher and Groves, top players include quarterback Andy Vetter, fullback Kevin Babcock, and offensive guards Bob Weidaw and Bob Barrow. Vetter is recovering from a broken thumb on his left hand, but should be ready for the opening game.

Toledo — Veteran quarterback Jeff Hupstall will be running the Toledo option attack and 1976 MAC Defensive Player of the Year Aaron Blivins will anchor the defense from a linebacker spot.

Western Michigan — In Jerome Persell, the nation's leading returning rusher and scorer, and fullback Keith Rogien, the Broncos have two backs that totaled almost 2,400 rushing yards last fall as well as 10 of 11 starters back on defense.

Fall Doesn't Rattle Rookie

Morris Gains First Win

DETROIT (AP) — Jack Morris took a pratfall before 11,686 Tiger Stadium spectators, grinned sheepishly, shrugged it off and went on to win his first major league pitching decision.

He was a little embarrassed by his fourth-inning flap, when he slipped off the rubber onto his left side.

"It wasn't that classy," he said, after pitching the Detroit Tigers to a 5-3 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers. "What could I do? Just tip my hat and cheer."

But the Detroit Tiger rookie didn't get embarrassed at the way he pitched since reaching the majors two weeks ago — just 13 months after turning pro.

The 22-year-old right-hander from St. Paul, Minn., with relief help from Steve Foucault, pitched well for the fourth straight appearance.

Ron LeFlore drove in three runs and rookie Steve Kemp two as the Tigers won the third of four games in the series to solidify their grip on fourth place in the American League East. Detroit, idle today, is 15½ games behind leader Boston. The Brewers slipped to 18½ out, .094 points ahead of Cleveland.

Morris "has the best changeup I've seen since I've been in this league," said Brewer centerfielder Van Joshua. Yet, he didn't find Morris hard to solve, going 5-for-5. Sal Bando was 3-for-3, but the rest of the Brewers got just three hits combined.

Cecil Cooper nearly sent the game into extra innings after a two-out single in the ninth by Joshua, but Mickey Stanley caught his two-out fly ball at the rightfield fence and Foucault picked up his eighth save.

Morris, a 6-foot-3, 190-pounder, was purchased by the Tigers from their Evansville farm club July 25 after starter Dave Roberts was sold to the Chicago Cubs. He was signed out of Brigham Young University as a fifth-round choice in the June, 1976, regular free agent draft.

Morris isn't in awe of the rapid rise.

"I really ain't," he said. "If I was awed by the whole thing it would bother me ... It seems just like I'm playing ball when I was little. I'm just playing with the guys. I don't know how to think any differently. It's a baseball game. I've been doing it since I was seven years old."

A single by Bando, a wild pitch and a bad-hop single over the head of second baseman Tito Fuentes by Lenny Sakata gave Milwaukee a run in the second inning. A Joshua homer increased the lead to 2-0 in the third, but LeFlore tied it with a two-run homer in the bottom of the inning.

Singles by Joshua and Cooper and a sacrifice fly by Don Money put the Brewers ahead in the fifth, but consecutive singles by Fuentes, Rusty Staub and Kemp tied the score in the sixth, 3-3.

Aurelio Rodriguez walked and scored the decisive run in the seventh on a LeFlore double off starter Jerry Augustus, 10-14.

"He's got pretty good stuff," Milwaukee Manager Alex Grammas said of Augustus, "but LeFlore just wears him out."

Kemp iced the victory with a homer in the eighth off Bob McClure — who relieved all four games of the series.

MILWAUKEE (1) 387, Toledo 287, Eastern Michigan 174, and Northern Illinois 109.

DETROIT (1) 387, Toledo 287, Eastern Michigan 174, and Northern Illinois 109.

Duff Boys Spark Benton Harbor To Tourney Title

Benton Harbor walked off with top honors in the Minor League division of the North Lincoln Boys Baseball Club's All-Star Tourney Wednesday night.

The Benton Harbor team of 10-year-olds struck for five runs in the fourth to overcome a deficit and dump Dowagiac 8-5.

The loss gave the Dowagiac team second place in the division.

Brothers Additt and Mike Duff collected five of the winners' nine hits to pace Benton Harbor at the plate. Steve Hunsberger had two hits, one a double for Dowagiac.

The Benton Harbor team became the second divisional winner in the double-elimination tourney. Fairplains captured Little League A bracket honors Tuesday night. Four other divisional winners are still to be determined.

Three of the four had title games on tap last night, but the undefeated teams which could have clinched the honors lost, forcing them into repeat playoff games tonight.

They were: Lakeshore in the Babe Ruth A bracket; Gallen in the Babe Ruth B bracket; and the Babe Ruth B bracket, and Coloma in the Little League B bracket. Lakeshore was dunned by Buchanan 9-3; Gallen was swamped by Blossomland 10-3, and Coloma was nipped by Lakeshore 3-2 in the Little League contest. The losses left all six teams with one defeat each.

In the only other game last night, Dowagiac beat Coloma 9-2 in Pony division action to earn a shot at the division leader Benton Harbor tonight at 6:30. Should Dowagiac win, a second game between the two would be required to determine the division winner.

Games in the other title contests tonight have Coloma facing Lakeshore at 6:30 in Little League; Blossomland facing Gallen at 6 p.m. in Babe Ruth B, and Buchanan facing Lakeshore at 8:30 in Babe Ruth A.

Buchanan led all the way in its game with Lakeshore last night. It had a 2-1 lead at the end of one, added one in the third and three each in the fifth and sixth before Lakeshore managed to shave two runs across. David Karpinski pitched a four-hitter in gaining the pitching win. Gary Coleman was given the loss. Greg Ward had two hits for the losers.

In Babe Ruth B action, Jim Riceland also gave up just four hits in Blossomland's win over Gallen. Reinhold, Dave Huff and Chris Vugle each had two hits apiece for the winners. Blossomland picked up the winning runs in the third and tucked on five insurance runs in the fourth to coast to the win.

In the Little League B bracket game, Rob Mead doubled to lead off the sixth for Lakeshore and scored the winning run on Marc Williams' fielder's choice. The Coloma team had tied the score with two runs in the top of the sixth. Parry Metz stroked a solo homer for Lakeshore in the fourth. Bill Weirick got the pitching win while Jeff Bignart got the loss.

Don Dominian struck out 14 in pining Dowagiac to its win over Coloma in the Pony division semifinal last night. Dowagiac scored one in the first and then added the winning margin plus in the second with a five-run outburst. Coloma scored one in the third and one in the bottom of the seventh. Chris Hanika doubled for Coloma. Rick Laurencig got the pitching loss.

Lawrence Champ In Pony Tourney

HARTFORD — Randy Gregory and Rick Penlinger paced Lawrence to an 8-7 victory over Watervliet in the Pony League championship game of the Hartford Baseball Tournament here Wednesday.

Gregory and Penlinger each had three hits for Lawrence, including a home run by Gregory. Joe Lopez was the winning pitcher.

Watervliet was awarded the sportsmanship trophy for the Pony League division.

Other action Wednesday saw Brandwine beat Hartford 15-5 and South Haven American edge Decatur 8-7 in the Major League and Hagar trounce Decatur 3-1 in the Minor League.

Tom Ludwig and Vince Muntz hit home runs in the Brandwine victory, and Tim Davis was the winning pitcher. South Haven got four hits from Doug Hill and three from John Dorow. Greg Marr was the winning pitcher. Eric Hickmot also had three hits for Decatur.

In the Minor League, the loss gave Decatur fourth place in the tournament. Hagar and Paw Paw play for third place at 6:30 p.m. today. Other action today has Brandwine facing South Haven American at 6:00 and Hartford tangling with Decatur at 8:00 in the Major League.

'Michigans' Star Sailing Race Here Aug. 27-28

Sailors from all over the Midwest are expected to converge on St. Joseph Aug. 27 and 28 to compete for the Michigan State Star Class Championship.

The Paw Paw Lake — St. Joseph Star Fleet will host the "Michigans," as the regatta is traditionally known, which will be sailed on the waters of Lake Michigan.

Linke, D'Amato College Bound — Former Red Arrow Conference standouts Bob Linke of Bridgman and Mark D'Amato of New Buffalo are going to continue their athletic careers at Albion College and Ferris State College, respectively.

Linke, a 6-5 all-league basketball star, averaged 17 points per game for the Bees, while D'Amato was a standout sprinter. The 1977 high school graduates will participate in basketball and track, respectively, in college.

Collier Hurls SJ Legion To Blue-Gray Loop Title

St. Joseph Legion's Mike Collier kept waiting for his team to give him some hitting Wednesday night at Riverview Park.

Except for an unearned run in the second, Collier had South Haven Legion eating out of the palm of his hand. Then St. Joe came through with two runs in the bottom of the sixth to take a 2-1 victory in the Blue-Gray League championship game.

Collier, now 8-0 in the league, has been the ace of Post 163's staff all season. In 62 innings of work, Collier has given up four runs, — two of which have been earned.

"We expected this of Mike this season," commented a jubilant coach Mike Wyngarden. "He was 8-1 last year.

"You can't be successful in this league without a good left-handed pitcher. Just look at us and South Haven."

Collier and South Haven's Jody Haumersen held their respective foes in check most of the game. Collier gave up five hits, struck out five and walked one. Haumersen had four strikeouts and one walk while allowing seven hits.

South Haven pitched what looked to be the only run of the game in the second frame. Andy Olson reached base on an error by the first baseman, Marty Capaccio sacrificed him to second and Olson scored on Kevin Bierhalter's double.

St. Joe had men on base in four of the first five innings but couldn't push a run across. Collier started off the sixth with a single and was sacrificed to second by Kurt Felgner.

After Paul Knuth lined out to center, Steve Ross drove Collier in with the tying run. Ross stole second and scored the winner on Herb Ross' single.

South Haven was by no means dead. Capaccio and pinch hitter Paul Dulik singled in the seventh but were stranded when Collier got the last batter in pop out to Herb Ross at second.

South Haven, now 28-8, will next see action in the American Legion Zone tourney at Coldwater on Friday. St. Joseph Legion, 38-17, will host the State Legion tourney next week.

Money Split Sets Record

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The 32 teams in the 1977 NCAA national basketball tournament shared a record windfall in gate and television money, the NCAA has announced.

Net tournament receipts came to $5,478,825.50, half going to the NCAA national office and half to the competing schools.

Every team that played in the tournament received at least $35,387.01. Teams that played two or three games took home $106,161.02.

The four finalists collected $212,322.01 each, about $89,000 more than the 1976 finalists received. In addition, each team received travel and per diem expenses.

CanAmer Gets Teichman Apples

Herb Teichman, owner of the Tree-Markus Fruit Farm near Eau Claire, has donated some apples to the CanAmer Games. Approximately 10 bushels will be aboard buses when youngsters leave at 8 a.m. Friday from Benton Harbor high school for Branford, Ontario, Canada, for the CanAmer Games. The fruit will supplement lunches CanAmer kids eat enroute to Canada.

Fighter Killed

REYNOSA, Mex. (AP) — Guadalupe "Cubanito" Hernandez, the world's fifth-ranked bantamweight contender, has died of injuries suffered in a motorcycle accident, hospital officials said Tuesday. Officials at Pemex clinic here said the 26-year-old fighter, who holds the national Mexican bantamweight title, died Monday from complications suffered in a motorcycle accident last week.

Kindle Back

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Gregg Kindle is back at the Atlanta Falcons' training camp, but the veteran guard doesn't plan to play with the National Football League team. "I came back to be traded," he said Tuesday when he returned to camp, a week after walking out in a contract dispute. "I'll just wait around to see what happens."

Red Sox Take 11th Straight Fenway Beats Pitchers Again

From ASSOCIATED PRESS
Mix together two of baseball's best pitchers in Boston's Fenway Park and most the time Fenway Park will emerge as the winner.

"When the wind is blowing out like tonight, you see some crazy things happen here," Boston Manager Don Zimmer said Wednesday night.

"The only thing which didn't seem out of the ordinary in the Red Sox' 11-10 victory over the California Angels was Boston's victory. It was the Red Sox' 11th straight win, the longest in the American League this season, and extended Boston's longest winning streak since 1950.

The game, which had been billed as a pitching duel between California southpaw Frank Tanana and Boston ace Louis Tiant, was anything but that.

Both pitchers had entered the game without surrendering a run in their last 16 innings of work, but both were hit hard. Tanana gave up five runs in as many innings, while Tiant was battered for six runs in 10 hits in five innings plus.

In other American League action, Cleveland defeated

Chicago 8-1, Detroit beat Milwaukee 3-3, Kansas City nipped Texas 4-3, Baltimore edged Seattle 5-4, New York whipped Oakland 5-3.

Frank White's two-out two run single off shortstop Bert Campaneris' glove in the fourth inning produced the go-ahead runs as Kansas City won for the sixth time in its last eight games.

Dennis Leonard, 12-9, picked up his third consecutive victory with relief help from Larry Gura, who earned his eighth save.

Texas starter Gaylord Perry struck out 13 as the Rangers had a three-game winning streak snapped.

Ken Singleton smacked a three-run homer and Elliot Maddux blasted his first home run of the season with one man runner aboard as Baltimore won its third straight game to remain in second place, 2 1/2 games behind Boston in the American League East.

Lee Stanton and Carlos Lopez bumbled for Seattle in a game which was delayed one hour and 40 minutes at the start and for another 19 minutes in the eighth inning.

Cliff Johnson's two-run double keyed a five-run first inning as the New York Yankees handed Oakland pitching ace Vida Blue the earliest knockout of his career and sent the A's to their 12th loss.

Graig Nettles walloped his 26th homer of the season in the second inning in support of Ron Guidry's ninth victory in 13 decisions.

Blue lasted just one-third of an inning.

DR. STAGG HONORED: A "Dr. Stagg Day" was held recently at the Don Kerbis Tennis Ranch in Watervliet in honor of Dr. Adelbert Letts Stagg of Hartford (left), the camp physician since 1972. Festivities included dedication of a Dr. Stagg court, a Dr. Stagg tennis tournament and a dinner and reception in Dr. Stagg's honor. Dr. Stagg, an avid tennis buff, divides his time between his practice in Hartford, the Watervliet hospital and the tennis ranch. Pictured standing with Dr. Stagg is Don Kerbis, operator of the tennis facility.

Eagle Boss Survives Banker Plot

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Leonard Tose, owner of the Philadelphia Eagles, says it's time to concentrate on football now that the team's financial problems have been worked out.

"This is the last financial discussion from me, from now on it's only going to be football," Tose said Wednesday during a press conference at which he bitterly accused two First Pennsylvania Bank officials of plotting to take control of the National Football League team.

Tose said he had paid off a $3.4 million loan from First Pennsylvania with money obtained Tuesday from the Manufacturers Trust Bank of Detroit.

"I don't believe it will take me more than six years to pay it (the new loan) off," he said, noting that First Pennsylvania had been paid $11.2 million, including $8.2 million in interest, since he took control of the Eagles in 1969.

In Detroit, Manufacturers officials refused comment.

William Clay Ford, owner of the Detroit Lions, has been on the Manufacturers board for 25 years.

Ford could not be reached for comment, but Lions General Manager Russ Thomas said Wednesday he knew Tose had called Ford recently and discussed the possibility of getting a loan from manufacturers. Thomas said he didn't know if Ford had actually done anything to help Tose.

Tose, who rarely discusses his personal or business relationships, accused First Pennsylvania, which loaned him $10.5 million to buy his 65 percent share in the Eagles, of trying to run the club, even demanding the right to approve trades and trim the coaching staff.

"There was one helluva plot going on but I don't know all the players," Tose said. However, he identified bank chairman John Bunting and vice chairman John Pemberton as the two chief culprits.

Neither Bunting nor Pemberton would comment.

Tose said Bunting and Pemberton called him into a meeting on July 28 and "in an impudent, arrogant manner demanding I pay the balance of my loan by the next morning."

He said the bank had been "concerned over the Eagles' $1.2 million loss last season and his lifestyle, which includes flying about in a helicopter."

Tose said he "capitulated" after the bank delivered its ultimatum and allowed First Pennsylvania to send in a specialist to cut costs. He told me not to honor Joe Kuharick's contract (a former coach) and I said it wasn't my style, and they said they would try to break the contract, and that's not going to happen," Tose said.

"They asked us to buy cheaper tape for the athletes, and that would save about $30 a year."

Green's Open Victory Didn't Produce Instant Riches

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — There's been a notable lack of reaction for Hubert Green's courageous victory in the U.S. Open.

Green likes it that way. It's kind of flattering," Hubert said. "The other players have congratulated me. But they just come up and shake my hand and say 'Nice going.' It's like they'd expected it to happen. And that's a lot more flattering than if everybody was jumping up and down and yelling 'Gee, whiz.'"

Green wasn't sure it would happen, however.

"Deep down inside," Green said, "I've got an inferiority complex. I'm not that sure of myself. I'd played well in some of the majors before, but you don't know you can win in the majors until you do it."

"I'd paid my dues. I'd won 10 or 11 tournaments before that, so it shouldn't have been a surprise. But you never know. There's been lots of good players who never won a major championship."

Now Green's done it, and, coming into this week's PGA national championship, he's eager to add another major title to the American national open crown he won under a death threat at Tulsa, Okla., two months ago.

"I've always placed a great emphasis on the major championships," he said. "That's where it all comes together. You have all the great players playing on great golf courses. And they're trying their very best. They're not just going through the motions."

"Winning in that kind of situation is a lot of fun."

It entails some responsibility, too.

"All of a sudden, I'm an expert on everything," Green said. "You win one of the majors and people interviewing you want your opinion on everything: golf, foreign policy and the price of peanuts."

The victory, however, hasn't opened the golden door to instant riches.

"You know, they say if you win one of the majors, it's worth a million dollars," Green said. "Well, maybe if you're Trevino or Palmer or Player and you've won a lot before, but it doesn't happen to everybody."

"I'm not really looking at it from that viewpoint, anyway," he said. "I'm not looking at what it will make me right now. I'm looking down the road. I have some very good tie-ups with national companies and winning the Open may help down the line.

"And it could help me in a couple of other business affairs. I'm not going to play golf forever. There'll come a time when I want to go into business. There's a possibility I'm going to get a seat on the board of directors (of a local business in Birmingham, Ala.) and that's a pretty good start."

Perhaps the most impressive thing about his victory, he said, is the respect he's gained.

GB's Marcol Overcomes Serious Drinking Problem

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Placekicker Chester Marcol, the hero in a National Football League exhibition opener for the Green Bay Packers, says he has been battling "a serious drinking problem" that could have led to chronic alcoholism.

"I had a serious drinking problem," Marcol said. "I'm not ashamed to admit it."

Marcol, the NFL scoring leader as a rookie in 1972 and again in 1974, said that "there were times when I came to practice with a hangover."

"I'd go out after practice and drink beer," he added. "I'd be on a two-three day drinking binge. Sometimes when I woke up the next morning, I didn't know where I was."

"My wife used to look forward to the start of training camp because then she knew exactly where I would be, with scheduled practices, meetings and a curfew," Marcol told Milwaukee Sentinel Sports Editor Bud Lea. "I went to a marriage counselor, and we decided if I kept on drinking I'd become a chronic alcoholic."

Marcol, 27, a native of Poland who came to the United States in 1965 and starred at Hillsdale College, was picked by the Packers in the NFL draft and became an immediate success in his first season, kicking 33 field goals and 29 extra points for 128 total points. His output the next two seasons remained high, totaling 82 points in 1973 and 94 in 1974.

He ran into difficulties after opening a Milwaukee restaurant and was sued over a financial matter in 1975. He was also charged for allegedly assaulting a woman, but the assault charge was later changed to disorderly conduct, and Marcol was fined.

He blamed a weight gain to 230 pounds in May of 1975 as one of the factors causing a leg injury in the opening game that sidelined him for the rest of the 1975 season. Last year, he kicked only 10 field goals.

He said he re-evaluated himself last January, realizing that he was overweight, his marriage was in trouble and his future in football seemed clouded.

Marcol said he quit drinking as of Jan. 10 and went on a diet, trimming down from about 220 pounds to 180, working with weights and kicking footballs to strengthen his leg.

"I've dedicated myself to this season," he said. "My personal goal is to help the Packers win."

Marcol said he was also considering visiting schools and "talking to kids about drinking problems when the season is over."

"I went through just about everything possible because I drank," he said. "I learned the hard way. Maybe I can help others."

He kicked three field goals Saturday night, a 49-yarder in the first quarter and two 45-yarders in the last 74 seconds that gave the Packers their 23-20 victory over Cincinnati.

He was the last player out of the Packer dressing room after the game, but about 50 fans were still on hand.

"The Polish Prince is back," one of them shouted.

Ad Model Sunday Matador

TIJUANA, Mexico (AP) — "He looks familiar to me," says one bullfight fan. "Yeah, I'm sure I've seen him somewhere," says a second. "Why sure, he's a dead ringer for the guy in the magazine ads," says a third.

The profile of Diego O'Belger, the Gringo matador, is so familiar because he indeed is the guy in the clothing ads in the magazines.

But on Sundays in Madrid or Tijuana, he dons an outfit probably more expensive than any ever offered for sale by the clothing maker: the goldbraided, embroidered and handmade uniform of the matador. It costs, by conservative estimate, $2,000.

He's good at this Sunday job — one of only seven Americans to achieve the title Matador de Toros and the only one in the rings at this time.

"Anyone can learn the basics of capework in six months," said O'Belger. "To really get to know the bulls, to learn all of the skills and perform with artistic grace takes 10 to 15 years, sometimes longer."

At 6 feet tall and 157 pounds, the experts say the Tucson-born O'Belger, 33, has the perfect build for a bullfighter.

In reality, neither dressing in the matador's uniform nor the high-fashion men's wear are O'Belger's main business. He spends most of his time as a public relations representative for a wine and brandy outfit.

But most of all, he said he loves the ring, and possibly the adulation of the rise-throwing senoritas, and the bulls, of course.

"The paradox is that to be a bullfighter, or for that matter, even an aficionado, it's important to love animals," said O'Belger, who saw his first bullfight at 10 in Nogales. "I have all kinds of pets, including an opossum, a sloth, and an ocelot," he said. "Once, I had a black bear and a lion; plus all kinds of dogs and cats."

Bulls are different, he concedes.

"The bull is a violent, noble animal with a tremendous instinct to attack. The matador must transform the bull's brute strength into something slow, graceful, and almost choreographed," said the man whose six hospital stints indicate the art is hard to master.

The most serious injury came in Torremolinos, Spain, as leaders of that nation's government watched.

"He was a sleeper. He flicked his head at the last instant and caught me. I got up and knew something was wrong," O'Belger recalls.

"I went on to kill the bull, walked over to salute the president and then went to the hospital," he added.

Will Ask High Court

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — University of Minnesota president C. Peter Magrath certainly isn't a quitter. He says he'll ask the U.S. Supreme Court to review the NCAA probation that has been imposed on all university athletic teams.

A Minnesota district court suspended the probation, but a U.S. appellate court reinstated the NCAA's action. It all came about because the NCAA wanted Minnesota to declare three basketball players ineligible after they were accused of receiving illegal lodging and scalping season tickets.

EDITOR'S MAILBAG

few years ago a child who scored 80 or below qualified for Special Education classes. Today we must have a parent's permission to provide special services such as speech therapy, psychological testing as well as his permission to retain a child. Those student who in years past have dropped out of school at age sixteen are now encouraged to continue their education through a curriculum based on their needs.

None of the things mentioned above are bad, but it does mean that when test scores are figured by local, state or national groups, children who were not included previously are included today. Does this lower scores?

We feel a tremendous responsibility as teachers to prepare lessons well and try to fulfill the needs of each child through the total curriculum which includes "frills." Physical education helps to develop fine and gross motor skills, the idea of left and right, following directions and sequence. Music teaches rhythm, meter, counting, memorization and coordination of action and speech in songs. Listening for directions and development of visual perception are products of our art program.

Values have changed as to the merit of a child repeating a grade. There is concern that it may harm his relationship with his peers or affect his self-image adversely. Recommendations are made for retention by the teacher and the principal, but the final decision is up to the parents.

Today the public schools are expected to take on many responsibilities which the parents assumed in years past such as providing school supplies, lunches and health care, to name a few.

Teaching is more all-inclusive than ever before as we try to reach each child on an individual basis. We realize there is room for improvement and we are willing to change. Our chosen profession is teaching. We like kids and want to instruct them to the best of our ability. But, we can't do the job alone. If you send your child to school well fed, well rested, appropriately dressed, loved, knowing that you respect his teachers and the educational system, we will send you home a child who will be educated to your satisfaction and to ours.

WRITES OF TRIP TO SCOUT JAMBOREE

Editor,
On Saturday, July 30, nine Berrien county Scouts left the Southland Mall in Kalamazoo on perhaps the most exciting experience of their lives.

James Bellmer, Jeff and Mark Jaske, and Scott Walters, of St. Joseph; Marvin Spencer, and Philip Wojcila, and Charles Stone, of New Buffalo; Stephen Creden of Niles; Mark Scher, of Coloma, and two adult leaders, David Wade, of St. Joseph and Dennis Schrupp, of Niles, left for the National Jamboree.

Although the Jamboree did not open until Tuesday, Aug. 2, the scouts that left on the 30th took a few side trips while en route to the Jamboree site. The Southwest Michigan Council's Jamboree Troop 109 first went to Dayton, Ohio, to tour the famous Wright Patterson Air Force Museum. They were allowed a little over two hours to see the famous landmark before heading back on the bus to find somewhere to eat dinner. The nine spent the night at the Cricket Holler Training Center, where they enjoyed the hospitality of the Buckeyes who were also headed for the Jamboree.

The next morning, after having breakfast in Dayton, the SWMC Scouts proceeded through the remainder of Ohio, through West Virginia, and into Pennsylvania for lunch in Washington, Pa. Then they proceeded into Maryland where they spent the night at Fort Ritchie, a military installation.

The following morning, they had breakfast on the bus, then drove on the bus to Gettysburg. Arriving at 8:00 a.m., they saw such sites as the National Parks Historical Museum, The Electric Map, and the Cyclorama, a 360-degree painting of Pickett's charge, when over 15,000 Confederate troops were flung against the Union lines and changed the course of the war.

Then, after lunch at the Battle theater, they were treated to a personally conducted tour of the battle fields right in our own bus. After that, the Jamboree-bound Scouts left to eat dinner and spent the night at Fort Ritchie.

The next morning, Aug. 2, after a breakfast at the fort, the scouts headed for Butler, Pa., for lunch before going to Moraine, Pa., State park where they joined over 30,000 scouts and leaders for the Boy Scouts of America's 1977 National Jamboree.

BH SHOULD BACK CITY MANAGER

Editor,

The Herald-Palladium article of Aug. 3, 1977, covers a special board meeting concerning the sale of Malleable plant which was necessitated by bank correspondence.

The city (Melvin Farmer, Jr.) has been negotiating acceptable rehabilitation conditions with purchaser. Finally after a tentative agreement months later, a better offer is made and now the issue becomes Benton Harbor's economy or maximum tax repayment. When only one purchase offer was involved the issue was economy and maximum repayment or there was no reason to negotiate. There were no accusations of conflict about the potential sharing of EDA funds with the board, only support. The board should support City Manager Melvin Farmer, so we the taxpayers of ton Harbor will know that those whom we've entrusted with the management of our dollars for the education of our children are concerned with the deteriorating tax base which increases the demand for more tax dollars from us who stay. Employment as well as other interests of the community are your interest and concern also.

John (Mickey) Williams
127 Catalpa
Benton Harbor

P.S. The interest of taxpayers can only be protected by those (such as Farmer) that recognize our interest.

MONEY OR LIFE MORE VALUABLE?

Editor,

I believe you have misplaced priorities with your headline, "Abortion: Ban Costly for Michigan" on 8-4-77. You printed a front page story based only on guesses and assumptions.

After reading the article several times and trying to digest the figures, I have come to the conclusion that the writer is more concerned about a relatively small amount of money than a person's life. What value does she place on the life of an individual?

The big cost of the welfare system is not the money spent for the care of children but rather the abuse of the system by people getting welfare fraudulently. I say let the writer expose welfare fraud and bring the cost down without injury to any human being, born or unborn.

RAILROAD CROSSING REPAIRS: Chessie System railroad crossing at First street, Watervliet, is closed to traffic for repairs. Emmons Trucking and Railroad contractors, Allegan, estimate repairs will take two or three days. Chessie is footing bill for repairs to crossings at Lewis and Pleasant streets, in addition to First street crossing. City council complained to railroad officials in June about poor condition of crossings. Mayor Arvid Frazier threatened to close down rail traffic through city if repairs weren't made. (Sandy Krickhahn photo)

Enforcement Hodgepodge Target Of Reformers

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — When a building is bombed, who investigates the crime? That question has started scores of arguments between the FBI and the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms. The disputes arise from laws that don't spell out clearly which agency has jurisdiction over which bombings. Similar disputes affect dozens of other agencies with federal law enforcement responsibilities.

Racketeering investigations lead to drug rings, and narcotics probes end up as organized crime cases. But the FBI has no jurisdiction over drugs, and the Drug Enforcement Administration has no jurisdiction over syndicate crime. The FBI and inspectors for the Department of Housing and Urban Development may duplicate each other's work in housing fraud investigations. Tax investigators may stumble upon bribery cases over which they have no authority.

The list of potential and actual conflicts among federal law enforcement agencies seems endless. It means much time and money that could be spent on solving crimes must be devoted to settling inter-agency arguments.

President Carter's reorganization specialists in the Office of Management and Budget are mulling over an idea that might solve some of the old problems, though it is certain to stir fears of too much White House control over federal law enforcement.

The idea, according to an OMB reorganization man, is a National Law Enforcement Council. It would work out of the White House and would be patterned after the National Security Council, which coordinates and advises the President in foreign policy matters. The attorney general would be a key member, along with other executive branch officials who supervise law enforcement units. The council, or a similar mechanism, would be designed to improve coordination among the agencies and to set clear priorities for law enforcement.

It could give the President stronger and more direct control over what kind of crime is investigated and prosecuted most vigorously. But the proposal is nothing more than an idea at present. The general government reorganization team must find out how many government agencies have policing or investigative responsibilities. Under the direction of former Atlanta lawyer Tread Davis, the team last month began to compile the information and found that it's not as simple as it may sound.

A General Accounting Office report two years ago listed 75 agencies employing 100,000 persons in police or investigative work. "We now think it's closer to 90 agencies," said the OMB official.

official.

"There are 23 different guard forces in the metropolitan Washington area alone," he remarked. "Everything from the guards at the National Zoo to the Capitol police. They've grown up with different salary schedules, different requirements, different training. We've found that the training can range from less than a week for one agency to 15 or 18 weeks for another."

He said the OMB team is attempting, for the first time in 40 years, to "take a look at the whole question of the multiplicity of federal organizations performing police or investigative activities." The FBI, for example, enforces many laws which were passed in the 1930s, when state and local governments didn't have the law enforcement capabilities they have today," he noted.

Congress has formed some agencies and added new res-possibilities to others in a rather haphazard way, he commented. The Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms agency — ATF — grew out of prohibition, but Congress later gave it jurisdiction over bombings. The FBI and ATF have agreed that the FBI investigates terrorist bombings and ATF handles the rest. But many bombings cannot be neatly categorized at once "unless the terrorist is kind enough to call in advance and take credit," the OMB official observed.

After developing information on the present system, the Davis team will consider what agencies could be merged or perhaps eliminated. "We're not reaching any conclusions yet about consolidation," the OMB official said.

But he said it's highly unlikely the team would propose merging all federal law enforcement agencies into one, with a single person in charge. "There's really no way you could put all of these agencies under one person, except the President."

Retired Clown Boosts Doctors

By ED ROWLAND
Associated Press Writer

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — A retired carnival clown who says he owes his life to doctors is trying to repay the debt with a campaign in support of the medical profession.

People don't mind spending $10 for a ball game, but if they have to spend $10 for a doctor they raise holy hell," says Steve Papp, who claims he wants to change that attitude.

Papp, 36, of Greenwood, S.C., is distributing bumper stickers that read: "Support your doctors and nurses — you need them." He also leaves small cards at area hospitals to be placed in patients' rooms. They say, in part, "You are here because you have an illness. Your doctor is here to help solve your illness."

Papp, a native of Dayton, Ohio, was born with a deformed bladder and other problems. He first had surgery to remove his bladder in 1927. Recurring problems caused him to undergo more surgery in 1968, and Papp said he was "damn near killed."

He sued — and won — for malpractice, then had 13 additional operations in which doctors repaired the damage done in the 1968 operation.

The bad experience followed by the good gave Papp the idea for his campaign. He borrowed $3,000 and so far has spent half the money trying to get his message to the public. He supports himself and his wife on an $185 a month disability check.

He has written individual doctors and hospitals, the American Medical Association and the U.S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare. He says of the doctors, "In the last years of my life I'd like to do as much as I can for them."

Papp adds: "We cannot exist without the medical profession. Doctors are losing their nice-say image. My crusade is aimed at erasing the image the public has about doctors and hospitals."

Today In History

Today is Thursday, Aug. 11, the 223rd day of 1977. There are 42 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1954, a formal peace announcement in Indochina ended more than seven years of fighting between the French and the Communist Vietnamese.

On this date: In 1857, the first Atlantic cable broke after 335 miles had been laid, and work was halted until the next year.

In 1900, Victor Emmanuel became King of Italy.

In 1928, Herbert Hoover accepted the Republican nomination for president.

In 1935, Nazi storm troopers staged mass demonstrations against Jews in Germany.

In 1945, as the Pacific war was nearing an end, the Allies informed Japan that a Japanese surrender offer was acceptable.

In 1965, rioting and looting broke out in the predominantly black Watts section of Los Angeles. Ten years ago: The Soviet Union informed the United States that it would agree to a treaty to try to limit the spread of nuclear weapons, and an American delegation hurried to Geneva to wrap up details.

Five years ago: North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces shelled and carried out sniper attacks on three approaches to South Vietnam's capital of Saigon.

One year ago: Seventeen blacks were killed and 50 injured in racial disturbances on the outskirts of Cape Town, South Africa.

Today's birthdays: Former President I.W. Abel of the United Steelworkers Union is 89 years old. Flannery and art collector Joseph Hirshhorn is 78.

Thought for today: They that govern the most make the least noise — John Selden. English jurist and statesman 1584-1654

Area Officials Voice Crime Grant Gripes

By LARRY MacINTYRE

Staff Writer

Officials from Berrien, Van Buren and Cass counties met with Fourth District Congressman Dave Stockman yesterday to outline their gripes about the way federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration grants are handed out.

The LEAA has provided $2,933,512 for criminal justice programs in the three-county area since 1970. Most of it — $2,302,018 — has been used in Berrien county. Cass received $417,983. Van Buren received $230,450 and the remainder, $53,052, went for a regional juvenile detention and rehabilitation study.

A major complaint was that there is too much paperwork, red tape and overlapping bureaucracy in the present system which funnels grant applications through regional and state criminal justice planning agencies.

Berrien county officials complained they were forced to drop some good crime programs such as the metro crime unit because federal rules prevent the assistance grants from running more than three years.

Otto Grau, a member of the Berrien county board of commissioners, said the county could not afford to provide 100 per cent funding for the metro crime unit after the federal grants ended and had to drop the program.

He said he received many complaints when that decision was made.

Stockman told 40-some people attending yesterday's meeting that he would keep their comments and suggestions in mind when Congress puts together a new LEAA funding program later this year.

Yesterday's special meeting at the Berrien county courthouse was called by the 42-member advisory crime commission of the Southwestern Michigan Regional Planning commission.

The advisory commission is made up of court, corrections and police officials from the counties of Berrien, Van Buren and Cass. County commissioners were also asked to attend.

Stockman said a task force appointed by Attorney General Griffin Bell to study LEAA grants has proposed that the procedure be simplified. Instead of making grant applications, counties and municipalities would receive an automatic grant each year. The amount would be based on either criminal statistics or population.

"You would get a set amount that you could count on for a number of years," Stockman said.

He said the money could not be used as a general purpose supplement to existing budgets, but rather would have to pay for innovative crime programs that would not be possible if financed solely with local funds.

He said the LEAA started with a budget of about $60 million in 1970 and this has ballooned into a $700 million annual budget.

"In many areas, the money has not been used as effectively as it could be," Stockman said. That's why Congress is now taking steps to revise the program, he said.

The LEAA provided declining grants for several crime programs in Berrien county including the metro crime and narcotics units. Both of those units used officers loaned from local police departments as well as the sheriff's department.

The declining grants provided 95 per cent of the cost for the first two years, 50 per cent for the third year and then required local sources to pick up 100 per cent of the cost in the fourth year. The narcotics unit still operates at a reduced level.

"We don't even accept them (LEAA declining grants) any more because we know we can't afford them after the second year," Grau told Stockman.

Stockman said the LEAA was created by Congress with the hope of reorganizing and streamlining local criminal justice systems and fostering increased cooperation among police agencies.

The only problem with the LEAA, Stockman said, was that it ignored local politics and jurisdictional rivalry.

The proposal by Attorney General Bell's task force to disburse grants to all agencies under a single formula is a "more realistic" approach, Stockman said.

Stockman said another criticism of the present system he has heard is that an applicant is forced to use a lot of "creative writing" in a grant application to convince LEAA officials the need is worthy.

Van Buren Sheriff Richard Shump said that since the LEAA established an office in Lansing in 1970, it has grown from three to over 60 employees. He said there are even more LEAA employees scattered out in regional offices throughout the state.

Shump said this indicates that too much money is being spent on administration and planning and not enough is actually being used for crime programs.

"If you give it (the money) to us, we'll spend it and spend it right," Shump said. That is more than can be said for the bureaucrats in Lansing, he added.

Nancy Clark, chairman of the Berrien county board of commissioners, said revenue sharing is the only federal program that has not become bogged down in paperwork.

Mrs. Clark said Congress should not give regional crime commissions the power to disburse LEAA funds. "With that much money, you're going to

Berrien Not Taking LEAA
Funds; Can't

have a whole new bureaucracy develop," she said.

At present, regional advisory crime commissions, such as the one in southwestern Michigan, must approve grant applications before they are sent to state LEAA planners.

Berrien county Commissioner Lou Stacey said the decision on where LEAA grants are to be spent should be with elected officials at the county and municipal level.

"The prospects of a lump sum grant going to the crime commission are pretty low," Stockman said. He said Congress would not pass a new LEAA bill unless the funds were allocated to counties and larger municipalities.

CASSOPOLIS — Dan Wyant, 18, Dowagiac, won the grand champion steer award in the youth beef show at the Cass County Fair here yesterday.

In the sheep competition, Joyce Seelye, 17, of Marcellus, showed the grand champion market lamb.

Wyant, the son of Riley Wyant, route 1, Dowagiac, won the top beef honor with his 1,335-pound Simmental Hereford crossbred steer. He also won the champion beef, heavyweight champion, senior showmanship and champion showmanship awards in beef, and reserve grand champion honors in market lamb competition. Wyant won the reserve grand champion award two years ago in the beef field.

The reserve grand champion steer was a 1,180-pound Simmental Hereford crossbred exhibited by Joyce Peterson, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Peterson, Route road, Niles.

Miss Peterson won the grand championship last year.

The champion dairy beef award was presented to Michael Green, 11, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Green, route 1, Cassopolis. Green exhibited a Holstein-Charmolais crossbred steer weighing 1,410 pounds.

Carl Sparks, 17, of Cassopolis, won the beef rate-of-gain award and the rotating trophy for highest rate-of-gain overall for his Simmental steer which gained an average of 3.372 pounds per day for 212 days.

The rate-of-gain award in the dairy beef class was presented to Ellen Wyant, 13, Dowagiac, for her entry which gained an average 2.806 pounds daily for 212 days.

Other beef awards included: champion lightweight steer,

Curt Wurster, 14, Cassopolis; mediumweight champion, Greg Jerz, 16, Decatur; intermediate showmanship, Ellen Wyant; junior showmanship, Evan Manifold, 11, Valin; and beginner showmanship, Michael McIntyre, 10, Niles. Miss Seelye, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roger Seelye, route 1, Marcellus, earned the top honors in the sheep competition, winning the grand champion market lamb honors with a Hampshire weighing 104 pounds. Miss Seelye also showed the grand champion Hampshire ram lamb, grand champion Hampshire ewe, champion pen of three and the champion mediumweight market lamb. In addition, Miss Seelye also received the champion showmanship and senior showmanship awards in the sheep competition.

Other sheep awards included grand champion Suffolk ewe, Darla Cushing, 11, Dowagiac; champion lightweight market lamb, Bart Seelye, 18, Marcellus; champion light heavyweight market lamb, Sherri Accoe, 9, Dowagiac; champion heavyweight market lamb, Dan Wyant, and junior showmanship, W. Russell Glover, 10, Cassopolis.

Doug Wyant, 16, Dan's brother, was awarded the rate-of-gain trophy for his Hampshire market lamb which gained an average 648 pounds per day over a period of 74 days.

Attendance at the fair Wednesday was reported to be a record 8,854, bringing total attendance so far to just over 18,000.

The youth market livestock sale is scheduled for 6 o'clock this evening. The grand champion of each livestock show will be included in the sale.

Other events for today include harness racing, 1 p.m.; lightweight pony pull, 4 p.m.; heavyweight pony pull, 5 p.m.; and lightweight horse pull, 7 p.m.

Activities scheduled for Friday include the youth horse show, 8 a.m.; goat show, 9 a.m.; harness racing, 1 p.m.; pony races, 3:30 p.m.; and performances by country singer Loretta Lynn at 7 and 9 p.m.

Airplane Crashes In Cass Lake

CASSOPOLIS — A twin-engine, amphibious airplane crashed as it was taking off and sank in Diamond Lake southeast of here yesterday evening, according to Cass county sheriff's deputies.

The plane's pilot, Jack D. Kellum of LaPorte, Ind., managed to escape without injury, police said. The $75,000 plane was owned by Continental Publishing, Michigan City, Ind., deputies said and was enroute from Michigan City to Kalamazoo.

Kellum was alone in the plane at the time of the accident around 8:10 p.m.

Deputies said the plane had landed on the lake about an hour before it tried to take off

South Haven Blood Drive
Short Of 325-Pint Goal

SOUTH HAVEN — The two-day Red Cross bloodmobile which concluded here yesterday failed to reach its goal, according to chairman Mrs. Nona Weirbecky. The drive netted 257 pints as opposed to a goal of 325 pints, according to Mrs. Weirbecky. Among milestone donors were Mrs. Charlotte Gould, route 3, South Haven whose pint raised her contribution total to six gallons and James Blair, 313 Superior street, South Haven who achieved the four gallon level.

William Peterson, 511 Lyons street, South Haven and Antan Gertner, route 2, South Haven reached the three gallon level. Achieving two gallon status were Mrs. Grace Davis, route 3, South Haven; Stephen Endres, route 5, South Haven; Mrs. Eugenia Hardy, 321 Pearl street, South Haven; and Mrs. Sherry Parish, route 5, South Haven.

Loses Fight For Lottery Prize

LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A Bonibus woman is the loser in her fight with the state lottery for a $200,000 prize she was erroneously awarded nearly five years ago.

The Michigan Court of Appeals overturned the Court of Claims on Wednesday and said Betty Coleman isn't entitled to the prize. It ruled the money belongs instead to Stanley Yao of Dearborn, as the lottery bureau had decided.

The fight started with the lottery's fourth "super drawing" on Dec. 21, 1972. Because of a mixup in numbers, Mrs. Coleman was announced the winner of the $200,000 prize and Yan the winner of $50,000.

The error was discovered and the awards reversed, but Mrs. Coleman filed suit claiming the .000 became hers when she was announced the winner.

The appeals court ruled, however, that the award could legally be reversed after it was announced. It said under the lottery's rules — which Mrs. Coleman agreed to in purchasing the ticket — the actual winner gets the money and not the person who is announced the winner.

Hartford Cancels
School Tax Vote;
To Use Reserves

HARTFORD — The Hartford school board voted last night to cancel a Sept. 12 tax election and dip into reserve funds to run the schools in the coming year.

Action came in the wake of the defeat Monday of a three-mill property tax levy addition for school operations. A six-mill tax levy renewal was approved in the same balloting.

The 4 to 3 vote will restore program cuts adopted on a preliminary basis by the board in July, but will probably lead to the layoff of perhaps three or four teachers, Supt. Gary Waterkamp said this morning.

"I feel good about it," Waterkamp said of the board's action at last night's special meeting attended by some 600 school district residents.

He said the board will use an estimated $280,000 to $300,000 cash balance to run the school this year. The use of the fund will probably mean the school will have to borrow money for operations — and pay interest on the loans — in the ensuing years.

"But how can you deny services just because you have to go into deficit spending," Waterkamp said.

The election Monday came after voters in June defeated a property tax proposal for the renewal of six mills and an additional four mills to finance school operations.

In a long statement leading to the board's move to cancel a third try at extra operating tax funds, Board Trustee Roger Duncombe last night described the two previous voter decisions as a "mandate" for the school to operate on its present tax levy and to use the existing cash balances.

Duncombe said: "With a $300,000 fund reserve, I cannot in all conscience vote to cut our program, all parts of which I feel are necessary to educational and social growth of our children..."

Referring to a proposal — if both tax levies were not approved — to cut to half days the class hours for grades one through eight, Duncombe added that "In business, our present course is called bankruptcy, and in education, called at best poor education, neglect and irresponsibility toward our future generation."

Voting to cancel the September tax election were Board Trustees William Austin, the school board president; Stephen Shafer; and James Keech.

Waterkamp said this morning that the state probably would not have allowed the school to make a cutback in class hours because the district had not used its cash surplus and because it had not first eliminated athletics and other activities that drain funds from the budget.

The board set another special meeting for next Monday to discuss layoffs of a secondary business teacher, a middle school English teacher, an elementary teacher and a half-day kindergarten class position. The layoffs would increase the teacher-student ratio to 30 to 1, the superintendent said.

Prior to last Monday's election, school officials had said that even with approval of the six mills, the district's 1977-78 tentative budget of $1,887,838 would probably still fall about $168,000 short of being balanced.

Another item that could contribute to budget troubles in the coming year is a yet unsettled salary contract with the district's teachers.

Waterkamp also called last Monday's special election tax vote a "mandate" from the voters.

He said 1,163 people cast ballots in the election. The district has slightly over 2,000 registered voters, he said.

Sightings Of UFO
Reported By Police

ALLEGAN — Three police officers from two different departments claim to have spotted an unidentified flying object (UFO) during the night. According to the Allegan county sheriff's department, a sheriff's deputy and reserve officer around 4 a.m. both spotted the UFO some 50 to 55 feet above ground traveling in a southwest direction over Casco township in southwest Allegan county. The pair described the object as a big spotlight with a red light on the back. They said it was traveling between 25 and 35 miles per hour. Just prior to that, an Allegan city officer claimed to have spotted a similar UFO flying over Allegan city, the sheriff's department said. The Federal Aviation Administration's traffic control tower at Kent County Airport, Grand Rapids, said they had no reports of any UFO's last night.

Hartford Township
Accepts Big Grant

HARTFORD — The Hartford township board last night voted to accept a $181,000 federal grant it has been offered to help pay for construction of a township hall.

Board officials said they will submit by Aug. 18 construction plans to the U.S. Department of Commerce's Economic Development Administration and get construction under way within 90 days after approval is given.

The grant will also be used for a utility building to be located next to the township hall and for paving some of the roads in Maple Hill cemetery.

In other areas, the board received a report from the Van Buren county road commission about work on township roads from January through July. The report said the road commission spent $30,274 on roads during that period.

MAJESTIC FIVE MILES: The full beauty and majesty of the Mackinac Bridge is captured in this aerial photograph by the Herald-Palladium's flying photographer, Adolph Hann. The five-mile span linking the "Two Michigans" this fall will mark the 20th anniversary of its opening on Nov. 1, 1957. (Adolph Hann aerial photo)

Years Prove 'Big Mac' Sound Investment

LANSING (Special) — Big Mac hasn't been the unmitigated instant success some predicted when the giant bridge was built linking Michigan's two peninsulas. It didn't cause the northlands to burst into economic flower at once.

On the other hand, the five-mile span that cost $100,000,000 twenty years ago never became the financial disaster others had forecast. It will pay off its construction bonds about 10 years ahead of schedule.

Looking back two decades after the 1957 opening, experience shows the colossus of the northlands hasn't gone to either extreme, but rather somewhere down the middle.

Traffic hasn't been as great as engineers predicted. The bonds haven't been paid off yet, but it appears they still can be paid off by, perhaps, 1985.

While the northern economy hasn't exploded because of the bridge, it has been fairly steadily increasing lately. Developers finally are putting hefty investments into new hotels, shopping areas and more tourist attractions.

The biggest disappointment has been that the bridge hasn't stirred much new industrial development in the economically depressed eastern U.P.

The people and money involved with the bridge so far are impressive. More than $118 million has been generated from the more than 39 million vehicles carrying some 91 million persons and untold cargo across the straits since the bridge opened.

The bridge already has collected more money than its original cost of about $99 million, which included $80 million for construction and $19 million for interest payments during the construction period.

Revenue is up nearly 6 percent and the number of crossings about 4 percent for the first six months this year, compared with the same period in 1976. The reason for the increase isn't certain.

"I really haven't the least idea why the crossings and revenue are up," said Lawrence A. Rubin, who's been executive secretary of the Mackinac Bridge Authority since 1959.

"I had anticipated a faster, more dramatic change in the north's economy from the bridge, though," he concedes. "What we see now is what I expected about 15 years ago. It is building up here now."

One brake, Rubin said, is that local business people haven't been so quick to jump into big new developments as some predicted.

"People up here are cautious by nature," he said. "They don't plunge. The people who plunge are those from places like Grand Rapids and Detroit who seemed to be the ones to see the opportunities for, say, big hotels."

The state senator whose district includes the bridge suggests that most local people just didn't have the money to invest. The outsiders were the ones with money, said Sen. Robert W. Davis, R-Gaylord.

Davis and another lawmaker closely watching Big Mac effects, Rep. Dominic J. Jacobetti, D-Negaunee, both contend that even if the bridge hasn't lived up to all hopes yet, they're thankful for what it has done.

"It has done a wonderful job for bolstering the economy and tourist trade, not just round here but in the entire state," Jacobetti said.

The two legislators also agree that lowering the toll in 1969 for autos from $3.75 (the original fare was $3.25) to $1.50 was a necessary shot in the economic arm.

It was made possible by a $3.5 million annual subsidy the state adopted.

Lower tolls have stimulated much more local traffic between the peninsulas. U.P. residents also are now more likely to head for Bay City or Saginaw, rather than Chicago or Milwaukee to shop.

But it's hard to prove that the bridge has had the hoped-for effect of better uniting residents of the two peninsulas psychologically.

It would be nice, everyone agrees, if the tolls could be dropped totally when the bonds are paid for. But there's a move in Congress to allow fares to continue in such situations nationwide because states say they can't afford maintenance costs.

Rubin and the state legislators agree that the current tolls apparently aren't a serious deterrent to development.

"I can't recall a complaint on the size of the fare — you call it a toll — in the past five years," Rubin said.

Cutting the toll to, say, 75 cents would probably be sufficient to cover operating costs, and it could help some people, notes Peter B. Fletcher of Ypsilanti, chairman of the State Highway Commission.

If fares can be cut, it may also be possible, Fletcher said, to give free passage to certain groups, such as senior citizens, or allow discounts on special days.

Meanwhile, as used to the span as thousands of drivers are today, a few still become numb at the thought of crossing the high span, and ask bridge officials to have their cars driven across for them. There were 173 such persons in 1976 afflicted with "acrophobia" or "agoraphobia," and 111 in 1975.

"It does move imperceptibly under extremely high winds, but it takes several hours to get it moving, and just as long to return to position," says Rubin. "It just moves in the direction the wind is blowing, but doesn't sway. It's safe."

Only one suicide case — and that a "possible" — has been reported. Several years ago a man left his car, still running, near the center, then disappeared. State Police have listed him, but Rubin wonders how, if he was driving, he could have lost his keys.

More boats cross over the bridge than under it — hundreds daily on trailers and car roof tops in the summer.

Nearly everybody is pretty happy over what Fletcher calls, "the crown jewel in Michigan's transportation diadem," but there is a bit of yearning for the good ol' days before Big Mac up and held for him.

Rubin still recalls a 1973 incident in which a person dropped a set of car keys through the grating onto a steel beam below, 190 feet above the water. They were retrieved for him, but Rubin wonders how, if he was driving, he could have lost his keys.

More boats cross over the bridge than under it — hundreds daily on trailers and car roof tops in the summer.

Nearly everybody is pretty happy over what Fletcher calls, "the crown jewel in Michigan's transportation diadem," but there is a bit of yearning for the good ol' days before Big Mac when a traveler might wait hours in line and take 45 minutes to cross over on a ferry.

"I do kind of miss that old ferry," Rep. Jacobetti said. It was a relaxing 45 minutes if you weren't in a hurry.

Jacobetti, in fact said he is studying whether the state might buy back one ferry — "The Vacationland" — it sold and refurbish it into a part-time railroad ferry and sightseeing excursion run.

That, the lawmaker figures, would be about the only feature most people would want to bring back from the days before the bridge united Michigan's two peninsulas.

'Mentally Ill' Law Survives Challenge

By MALCOLM JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
LANSING, Mich. (AP) — A two-year-old state law which toughened up the handling of mentally ill defendants in criminal proceedings has survived its first challenge.

The state Court of Appeals reversed Wednesday a lower court ruling that the controversial "guilty but mentally ill" law was unconstitutional.

The ruling was a victory for supporters of the law, which critics argued might be used to abuse the rights of the mentally ill.

The appeals court stressed that in upholding the law it was considering only the single case, and not raising other points which might be debated in the future.

The court said Wayne County Circuit Court Judge Susan Borman acted prematurely when she struck down the law last September as she prepared to sentence a convicted arsonist.

In overturning the law, Judge Borman ruled it would be impossible for the state to provide the necessary psychiatric treatment called for in the 1975 law, and said any sentence would be "cruel and unusual punishment."

The law lets a court convict and sentence mentally ill persons who are found guilty of crimes and order that they receive psychiatric treatment. After such treatment, they must serve the remainder of their sentence.

Persons found innocent by reason of insanity in the past often have been released shortly after psychiatric treatment — sometimes only to commit another crime.

The new law is designed to detain such mentally ill but dangerous persons. A court can apply the "guilty but mentally ill" verdict if it decides the person was still capable of controlling his conduct.

Judge Borman made her ruling in the case of Joseph McLeod, who was charged with arson. He had been convicted of arson three times, and diagnosed mentally ill and retarded.

Ms. Borman ruled he was capable of conforming to the law and found him guilty but mentally ill. But after hearing testimony on the lack of psychiatric treatment in state facilities, she ruled the law unconstitutional and ordered a new trial.

The appeals court noted that Judge Borman raised the issue of treatment on her own and that McLeod's attorney had not asked for a new trial. It said she was premature in her ruling, since it was based on "speculation

Fish Gear Is Target Of Thieves

Fishing tackle was the prime target of thieves in three larceny complaints filed Wednesday with Twin City area police.

Berrien sheriff's officers said two downriggers, four reels and two six-gallon gas tanks valued at a total of $725 were reported stolen from a boat owned by Tom Martel, 513 Spring Creek road, Three Oaks, while the craft was parked in his front yard.

Deputies also reported a fishing rod and minnow strainer owned by Karl Kuller, of Chesherton, township, Ind., were reported stolen from a camp site at Sportsman's park, US 31-33 in Tipton township.

Perry Haina, 1764 Sherwood drive, Stevensville, told St. Joseph township officers a fish finder valued at $100 was stolen from his boat while it was moored at Whisperin Willows marina, Niles road.

In another theft, St. Joseph township police reported Wednesday two 10-speed bicycles valued at $235 were stolen from a closed garage at the D.L. Winters residence, 529 South Ottawa, Fairplain.

Census Aide Catches Giant Error; He's Fired

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — John Bullock, an economic statistician whose outspoken criticism of Census Bureau data led to the belated correction last December of a $30 billion understatement in an economic study, has been fired.

Bullock, 30, said he was accused of "coercion to seek advancement" after he found more errors in another Census Bureau study and threatened "to go public" unless permitted to organize an effort to correct the figures.

The dismissal followed two letters of reprimand, one for what he said was alleged to be a "malicious, vicious insult" to a superior, and another for insulting his wife's superior.

Robert Hagan, bureau director, said he was not free to discuss the bureau's action but said the details were spelled out in a letter to the former employee.

Bullock termed the coercion charge a fabrication resulting from his insistence that he be permitted to correct the additional errors, a job that apparently would have required a rating higher than his GS-12.

He said he was superior to Shirley Kudlek, his superior, to put his demands in writing, which he did, and that the dismissal followed.

At issue, he said, are figures making up the basic annual economic data base of the bureau, which are released separately for individual states, followed by publication of a national survey.

Included in such studies are figures for the number of businesses of all kinds, the number of jobs and the size of payrolls in all the nation's counties. Bullock claims the figures are biased by 25 to 30 percent.

The latest accusations by Bullock follow a personal, four-year fight to correct problems in another survey, that for the level of unfilled orders at the nation's factories.

The bureau at first minimized the extent of the unfilled orders miscalculation. Bullock said that instead of adjusting the figures or issuing a caveat, he was threatened with insubordination by Miss Kallek, who devised the methodology.

Statements claiming to rebut an Associated Press story on the subject last Oct. 1 were issued by Hagan, Commerce Secretary Elliot Richardson, and John Kendrick, Commerce Department chief economist.

Following a special study, rushed to completion last December, the bureau conceded the understatement in the level of orders to be, in some years, close to 40 percent, and in total roughly $30 billion a year.

It denied, however, that monthly users of the statistics were misled, claiming that the month-to-month changes fairly accurately reflected basic trends if not the true levels of unfilled orders.

Asked then — in December 1976 — why a recent hadn't been issued, in keeping with the published policy of the bureau in regard to questionable statistics, Milton Eisen, chief of the industry division, said "We were slow in accepting anything (Bullock) said."

In that controversy, Bullock maintained that because of his efforts he was passed over for advancement. He said he was also removed from work on the study and given another job, in which, he says, he found the most errors.

Bullock said his problems continued when he asked and was denied an apology by Miss Kallek over a statement she made to The Associated Press last September that he had

"many, many problems with the bureau."

Miss Kallek, associate director for census fields, said at the time that Bullock's problems were exemplified by his behavior. "Before this he was complaining about another survey," she said.

Bullock concedes that after being denied certain data to which he felt entitled as a citizen, he accused Miss Kallek of Gestapo and Nazi-like behavior. That led to one reprimand.

The second reprimand came after he "told off" his wife's boss because, said Bullock, the boss indicated that if she testified in a Civil Service hearing on race and sex discrimination it might be used against her.

Bullock explained in a previous interview that his repeated efforts to obtain corrections of data, only to have his attempts react adversely on him, probably made him somewhat "nasty."

He said, "We're well paid by the public and when we don't act professionally, I become intolerant."

Following his dismissal, Bullock said that in a professional sense "I am an ideal employee," and that the reprimands were a consequence of his efforts to correct abuses within the system, and particularly the Census Bureau.

"No reprimands have been issued to those responsible for the poor data," he said, nor, he added, for their attempts to delay corrections.

NEWS OF MARKETS

Market Gains At Opening

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market added to Wednesday's gains today with a lift from news of a second consecutive monthly decline in the wholesale price index.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks rose more than a point in early trading.

Gainers took a 5-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues.

Before the market opened the government reported that the wholesale price index declined 0.1 per cent last month after a 0.7 per cent drop in June.

The news came after the market had already begun a rally in the closing moments of Wednesday's session.

Today's early prices included Sears Roebuck, up 1/4 at 31 1/4; Digital Equipment, 1/4 higher at 98; and Johnson & Johnson, down 1/4 at 79 1/4.

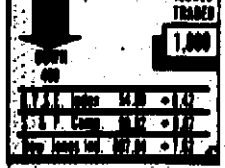

On Wednesday the Dow Jones industrial average climbed 7.82 to 857.04.

School's Land May Yield Oil

ROMEO, Mich. (AP) — School administrators in this Detroit suburb are contemplating a potential bonanza that could be the answer to the hard-pressed taxpayer's dream: Oil and gas under the schoolyard.

The school board is considering bids from three firms which could bring in $1 million to $2 million over six to 10 years.

"We're not going to get excited until we hit a well, although they do feel there's a very good chance on at least one of the sites," said Louis Giannuzzi, assistant superintendent for curriculum.

Several wells have been drilled in the area since the mid-1960s. Fred Clark, executive vice president of Michigan Natural Resources, one of the firms seeking school sites, said there were "a lot more dry holes than producing wells," although 16 wells have been successful.

The district's eight schools, two vacant plots and a warehouse may be sitting on a gas and oil-bearing formation known as the Niagara Reef. Officials said any successful wells would not disturb existing buildings.

The bidders believe the school lands would produce gas rather than oil.

School officials face an Aug. 22 election for approval of an increase of $2.50 per $1,000 of assessed valuation. They have promised any drilling revenues would go to a dollar-for-dollar tax reduction.

Voters rejected the increase, 8.7 per cent, on the current school tax, in June.

WILDCAT STRIKE

Chrysler Engine Plant Still Shut

TRENTON, Mich. (AP) — A key Chrysler Corp. engine plant today remained shut down by a wildcat strike, and company officials said its effect might be felt if the walkout continued much longer.

The strike defied a federal court order and requests by the company and the United Auto Workers International and Local 372 that the 2,000 hourly employees go back.

UAW international leaders called for a meeting late today with the rebellious Local 372 in an attempt to coax the wildcat strikers to return to work.

Marc Stepp, UAW vice-president and director of the union's Chrysler department, said the meeting would be used "to put the word to them (the local leadership) and get the pickets back inside the plant."

About 1,000 salaried workers were on the job Wednesday but production was halted. The plant turns out six-cylinder and V8 engines for all Chrysler models.

A Chrysler spokesman said other plants were producing enough six-cylinder engines to meet the company's needs at the moment. But the Trenton plant is Chrysler's only source of V8s.

The walkout began Monday, when the automaker fired or suspended about 50 workers. They had allegedly led a walkout at the plant July 24.

In that incident, the temperature reportedly hit 130 degrees in the foundry and workers did not return after their lunch breaks. The firm said they were not pleased with the stewards' efforts to get the workers back into the plant.

The company said medical personnel would give workers "heat passes" if they were unable to return to the hot plant. But workers charged the passes were too hard to get.

U.S. District Court Judge Philip Pratt issued a temporary injunction against the picketing Tuesday and the company and union both urged employees to return to work.

But no action was taken Wednesday to enforce that order.

The strikers have demanded that the disciplined workers be reinstated. They have also accused Chrysler of going back on promises to ease heat problems in the plant.

Trenton Police Sgt. Ralph Raymond reported all was "quiet and under control" at the factory gates Wednesday. One picket was injured Monday when he hung onto a car driven by a worker who refused to join the walkout.

FIRE FIGHTERS: Richard and Linda Pierce relax in Zimmerman where they work this summer as firefighters for the Minnesota Dept. of Natural resources. (AP Wirephoto)

Fire Fighting Thrill For Man-Wife Team

ZIMMERMAN, Minn. (AP) — Richard and Linda Pierce share a job that keeps them on constant call, sends them into the woods with 40-pound tanks on their shoulders and often leaves them covered with black soot. And they love it. As members of the Minnesota Department of Natural Resources' "hot shot" fire-fighting crew based here, the Pierces see their work as a summer adventure.

It's the second year they've spent trudging through swamps and woods, working 12-hour days, lugging hoses, hatchets and pump cans to help put out forest fires. Last year, they worked as U.S. Forest Service fire fighters in the Black Hills of South Dakota. Both have degrees in forestry from the University of Minnesota and hope to get fulltime work with the state agency after their work ends in November.

It's unusual for a couple to work on a fire-fighting crew. "Usually, they want one but not the other," said Pierce, 24.

The Pierces agreed that, because they work together, they are not as worried about each other's safety as they might be otherwise. "A lot of the married guys' wives worry because they don't know for sure where we are," Pierce said. "At least we know where the other one is and what they're doing."

And they see little likelihood they'll get tired of living and working together. "Some couples couldn't do it," said Mrs. Pierce, "but we're with 10 other people and we're often as much as two miles apart."

The crew, which to the untrained eye might look more like a group of summer camp counselors than fire fighters, provides a family atmosphere for the Pierces. "But it's seldom just the two of us and we welcome the days off when we can be alone together," Mrs. Pierce, 24, said. On location at a fire, crew members usually bunk together, eat together and, if there's time, socialize.

The Pierces' job at a fire depends on what stage the blaze has reached when their crew is called. "If it's a little fire and we're called in on the initial attack, we take the pump cans and shovels to the fire's periphery and begin working on putting it out," Mrs. Pierce explained. "If it's a project fire we're mostly on the mop-up crew putting out burning snags and logs and patrolling the fire line."

In many instances, no vehicles can get to a fire area. The Pierces recall one time when, after working nearly 12 hours on a fire, the crew had to walk five miles on railroad ties to the nearest town. The Pierces' must stay within three hours of the base station. But that's not much of a concern, they said, since most of their time off is spent catching up on lost sleep and energy.

Carter Aides Are Bright -- But Absent-Minded

By FRANK CORNIER

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter has surrounded himself with assistants who are, for the most part, young, bright and level-headed. Some also are absent-minded.

Example: A special assistant, offered a ride home from a party at a downtown hotel, had his benefactor drive him to the VV Chase section of the city. Once there, they cruised down street after street, for nearly an hour, until the Carter man recognized his own house.

It seems his wife drives him to and from the White House so he really has some motivation for remembering where he lives.

Example: One of the President's principal aides was housed in a fancy Washington hotel during the preinaugural transition period, until his wife arrived from Georgia to set up housekeeping. The Carter assistant packed his suitcase and moved to a new home of his own — neglecting to tell the hotel.

management he was leaving.

The result was the delivery, weeks later, of a bill for several thousand dollars, according to two White House sources. Because it wasn't a legitimate government expense, the bill reportedly was settled by the Democratic National Committee.

Example: Before leaving Georgia for Washington, a Carter political strategist parked his Volkswagen on an Atlanta street. Unfortunately, he could not recall later where he had put the vehicle — and has never seen it since. Which presumably explains why this particular individual was one of the few Carter appointees to list no automobile on his net worth statement.

"The car never would have made it to Washington anyway," his White House secretary confided.

Some reporters thought Carter looked tired at his most recent news conference. When Deputy Press Secretary Rex

Gramm was asked if the burdens of office were taking a toll on the President, he replied:

"I asked him about that but he sort of dozed off."

The irreverence of this rejoinder reminded some of the occasion when Bill Moyers, as press secretary, reported during a Texas weekend that President Lyndon B. Johnson was spending an afternoon on Lake Lyndon B. Johnson.

"What's he doing on the lake?" a reporter asked.

"Taking a walk," Moyers replied.

Gramm was similarly freer-poken after telling reporters that, out of a two-hour Cabinet meeting, seven minutes were devoted to "sensitive" matters.

When a newsmen expressed incredulity that Carter and his partners in government had devoted only seven minutes to items that could not be shouted from the rooftop, Gramm amended his report.

"Or eight (minutes)," he said. "I would leave myself some room."

In a slip of the tongue, a broadcaster recently asked Gramm if there had been any late developments following the shooting down of a U.S. Army helicopter over North Vietnam. This prompted Jerrald Schecter, a spokesman for the National Security Council, to snap, "You don't know the difference between North Vietnam and North Korea."

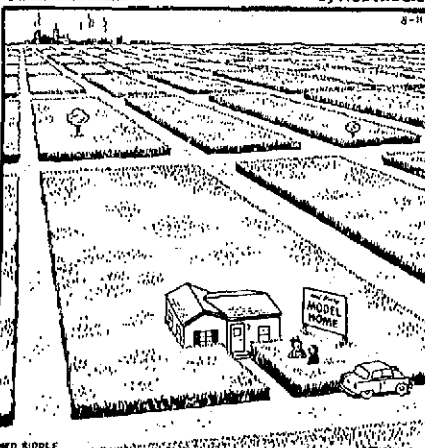

The broadcaster had the last word after Gramm's office put out a brief press release later the same day that began:

"The Army investigation of the downing of a U.S. helicopter in North Vietnam is continuing."

Summer has been a season for parties on the White House lawn that overlooks the Ellipse and the Washington Monument. The President and Mrs. Carter invited all Congress members and their families, in random rotation, to a series of three, even-numbered, affairs, each with live entertainment.
